Policy to Assist Farmer Is Guaranteed; Parading Goes On Unabated.

(Associated Press.)

All the members of Spain's royal family are safely out of the country, following different paths into exile.

The king is somewhere at sea aboard the Spanish cruiser Principe Alfonso, presumably headed for Marseilles, France.

The queen with five of her children is speeding across France in an express train bound for Paris. With her are her daughters, Beatrice and Cristine, and her sons, Alfonso, the heir; Jaime and Gonsalo.

A fourth son, Juan, is at Gibraltar waiting for word from his father before joining the rest of the family, wherever they may gather.

Madrid, April 15 (A.P.).—The Republican government of Spain, new and untried, closed its first day of power with a manifesto laying down the rights of the people and announcing its intention to call a constitutional parliament.

Signed by provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora and his ministers, the decree pledged respect for personal property, religious freedom and public assembly, guaranteed a new agrarian policy to aid the farmer and promised to turn over its power to a permanent government whenever formed.

Meanwhile, the nation was without a royal family for the first time in nearly a century. Former Queen Victoria, the Princesses Beatrice and Christina and the Infantes Alfonso, Jaime and Gonzalo were en route to Paris, speeding into exile to rejoin former King Alfonso. The younger Alfonso, Prince of the Asturias and the oldest son, was reported to have left alone last night, but the report was not borne out by later facts.

Thousands Still Parade.

Stimulated by declaration of a national holiday, the people's celebration of the fall of the monarch late yesterday continued unabated. The city swarmed with cheering thousands still parading the streets, waving Republican emblems and transforming Madrid into a gigantic carnival. Few police were on duty and

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The use of fact-finding commissions is again being criticized. About 25 years ago agitation caused the Congress to prohibit spending public money for such purpose. Recently the subject has returned.

Some people are born with a complete set of ready-made opinions. Facts do not affect them. But no executive, from first selectman to President, can know everything necessary to discharge his office or be able to learn it from official sources. He must call on some body which can gather the information. Public duty requires it.

But a good system can be abused. If it appears that a commission is established to relieve the Executive from making his own decision, or to displace the ordinary functions and powers of the legislative branch of government, criticism will be made. Legislators suspect commissions of usurping the law-making power. It is well, therefore, to put some legislators on the commission. They can defend a report on the floor if legislation is sought. When these difficulties are avoided, when a candid and sincere search for truth appears, very helpful commissions can usually be appointed without the legislators feeling slighted and without creating just cause for criticism.

Rowbottom Sentenced On 4 Bribery Counts

Former Representative Given Year and $2,000 Fine.

Evansville, Ind., April 15 (A.P.).—Harry E. Rowbottom, former representative in Congress of the First Indiana District, was convicted in Federal court tonight of accepting bribes from persons who sought postoffice appointments.

Rowbottom was sentenced immediately by Judge Charles E. Woodward to serve one year and one day in Leavenworth Penitentiary and was fined $2,000. This sentence was imposed on the first count of the indictment.

Judge Woodward also imposed the same sentence on three other counts on which the jury voted to convict Rowbottom, but he held that the sentences could be served concurrently.

Rowbottom's attorneys indicated that no appeal would be taken. He will remain at liberty under bond of $10,000 until 11 a. m., April 20, when he is to report to the United States marshal at Indianapolis to begin his journey to prison.

The jury returned its verdict after deliberating two hours and five minutes.

The first of the four counts on which the jury found Rowbottom guilty was that he unlawfully agreed to accept from Walter G. Ayer $750 for procuring and aiding to procure for Gresham Ayer, his son, a rural mail carriership at Rockport. The

WOMEN WETS MEET HOOVER, PLEAD REPEAL

500 Members of Prohibition Reform Group Visit White House.

PRESIDENT CORDIAL, DELEGATE REPORTS

32 State Chairmen Attend Second Annual Meeting of Association.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Five hundred smartly-clad women, ranging from dowagers to debutantes, day and petitioned him to help called on President Hoover yesterday repeal the prohibition law.

The visitors, representing the wet wing of America's womanhood, were members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, which opened it second annual convention in the Hotel Mayflower the day before.

Their call at the White House came as a surprise. On Monday Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, the head of the organization, said that no request for a reception at the White House had been made "because our purpose is the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and Mr. Hoover has said several times that he is opposed to repeal."

Resolution Drawn Tuesday Night.

On Tuesday night, however, Mrs. George Orvis, of the dry State of Vermont, drew up a resolution urging the President and Congress to make it possible for the country to vote for repeal of prohibition. This was adopted by the executive committee.

Yesterday Mrs. Robert Lovett, of Boston, Mass., got in touch with the White House and learned that President Hoover would be glad to receive the women delegates, and to receive the resolution which they wished to present to him.

This information was communicated to the delegates by Mrs. Sabin at the morning session at the Mayflower, after which the resolution was adopted and the trek to the White House begun.

President Shakes Hands With All.

The resolution was presented to President Hoover by Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll, of New York, the national secretary. Afterward, Mrs. Nicoll said that the President smiled and told her that he was "glad to have it."

Behind Mrs. Nicoll came Mrs. Sabin and 500 more determined foes of prohibition. They filed through the door of the executive office and then on into the office of President Hoover. With each the President shook hands, just as he did when a smaller delegation of women drys called on him several days ago.

Leaving the White House, the women returned to the Mayflower and there adopted a resolution urging all members of the organization to vote only for "candidates for public office who have openly declared themselves in favor of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment." In other words, the resolution urged the women to forget party lines and vote for wets.

Reports Hoover Cordial.

Later, in a press conference, Mrs. Sabin was asked whether she thought President Hoover was a dry.

PROBERS TO VISIT EUROPE AND CHINA

Senators Pittman, Swanson and Shipstead Will Seek Silver Data.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating the depressed price of silver and trade relations with China yesterday announced plans for continuing its inquiry by sending its members to China and Europe for conferences with political and industrial leaders.

The committee authorized its chairman, Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, to go to China, and Senators Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, and Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, to go to Europe.

Pittman said the committee wanted to be prepared in December when Congress meets again "to have as definite information as possible on every subject bearing on the silver situation" for presentation in a final report.

A preliminary report was submitted during the last session recommending international negotiations on the silver question and a silver loan to China.

Senator Pittman announced he would sail for China in about a month and spend at least a month there. While in China, he said, he will attempt to find out the Chinese attitude toward an international conference to stabilize the price of silver and the question of China's need for financial assistance for internal development.

He said he would discuss uses to which financial aid would be put, conditions under which a loan could be made, whether it would be desired

Paul Hovgard Suffers Only Minor Bruises as Wings Fail.

Five Persons in Kitchen Barely Missed by Falling Craft.

High in the heavens above Anacostia Naval Air Station, a civilian pilot battled his way out of a collapsing plane yesterday afternoon and floated 7,000 feet to earth, as his craft plunged to wreck a dwelling and miss taking the lives of five persons by a few feet.

He was Paul Hovgard, 32 years old, pilot of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation, of Bristol, Pa. His experience cost him merely a cut on the face suffered just before he deserted the plane and superficial cuts and bruises sustained when his parachute dumped him sprawling on the Navy Air Field. Medical attention and a rest in the Navy Sick Bay there enabled him to make a previously-scheduled train departure for Bristol last night.

The near-tragedy came with dramatic suddenness. Only a few minutes earlier Hovgard had wheeled out the big vivid-yellow Keystone Loening land plane, a new type observation craft, for tests in front of a gallery numbering many fliers and air experts of the Navy, which had contemplated its possible use on aircraft carriers.

Through a cloudless sky, Hovgard climbed to an altitude of exactly 10,000 feet. A speck in the blue, the plane cruised for a moment. Then like a plummet, it shot earthward at 230 registered miles an hour as Hovgard sent it into a power dive to demonstrate its speed and stamina.

As the altitude needle slid past the 8,000-foot mark, a flying particle stung the pilot. Gazing straight ahead, he saw the engine cowl ripping, fluttering momentarily in the blast of air. Tearing himself loose from his safety strap, weighed down by the wall of thickening pressure, he battled to his feet, crouched for a second and leaped just as the stripped cowling flew back, shattering the wings and sending them hurtling to earth near the two-story frame house in which the motor and fuselage buried themselves.

The dwelling, 1016 Sumner road southeast, lay hardly more than 200 yards from the spot where Hovgard

NICARAGUAN POLICY IS CHANGED BY U. S.

Refusal to Use Marines to Protect Firm's Holdings Is Marked Deviation.

(United Press.)

A drastic change of American policy in Nicaragua—under which United States Marines are being employed with extreme caution and only to protect life—has been, in the present Nicaraguan crisis, adopted by the Hoover administration, it was learned yesterday in an authoritative quarter.

This change of policy, indicating a break with the Coolidge doctrine of protecting United States property by armed force, has been disclosed by events of the last three days at Puerto Cabezas. The State Department, it was learned, has turned a deaf ear to entreaties by the Standard Fruit & Steamship Co. to use United States troops to protect its extensive holdings near the east coast Nicaraguan seaport.

William Dufour, legal adviser to the company, held a conference with State Department officials Monday and asked protection for the Standard properties. The State Department responded only to the extent of allowing the cruiser Asheville to land troops to protect company employes while Guardia Nacionale forces were out of Puerto Cabezas. Yesterday the Standard company protested to the White House against the department's "dilatory tactics." The protest was forwarded to the State Department.

When Mr. Coolidge sent Marine to Nicaragua in 1927, he explained their purpose was to protect American life and property and our Nicaragua and Panama Canal rights. He did so, it is known, after considerable pressure was exterted by United States firms with holdings in Nicaragua.

Secretary is known to accept the general principle that when United States citizens invest in a foreign country they do so subject to the laws of that country and subject to certain risks of internal disorder.

Mr. Stimson is understood to feel that, under certain conditions, it is sometimes necessary for a nation to protect the property of its nationals in another country when that country itself does not provide such pro-

CLERK AND AID HELD IN PLOT TO ROB OFFICE

Police Charge Machine Gun Layout to Loot District Bureau.

DETECTIVES LISTEN TO SCHEME IN HOTEL

Arthur Fisher Is Accused of Planning Theft With Sleuths.

MAY 30 IS SELECTED AS DATE OF CRIME

Former Employe Provided Data on Building and Cash, City Official Says.

A daring plot to steal a $120,000 pay roll in a machine-gun hold-up of the District government's disbursing office was stifled last night in a downtown hotel, where two youths were arrested by detectives, who say they listened to their plotting from an adjoining room.

Those held are Arthur A. Fisher, 24 years old, a clerk in the District auditor's office, and Phillip K. Stumm, alias Robert Dixon, 30 years old, of Syracuse, N. Y.

Fisher has not yet learned that the two "Brooklyn gangsters," one of who was to be the "machine-gun man," with whom he allegedly plotted the crime, were agents planted in the group by Inspector William S. Shelby.

Detectives Hear Plotting.

Headed by Lieut. Charles Weber, a group of detectives secreted in an adjoining hotel room heard the group plan the stick-up, which was scheduled to occur soon after noon, on May 30, when only workers in the disbursing office would be in the District Building.

After the scheming had progressed for an hour one of the police department agents raised a window and said: "It's hot in here." This was a signal that the meeting was over, and the headquarters' group left their room and stood in front of the room occupied by the group.

As the door was opened the two alleged plotters and the two agents of the police department found themselves looking into the muzzles of guns held by Lieut. Weber and Detective Sergts. C. C. Stepp, J. W. Wise and H. E. Ogle. Neither of the two alleged plotters were armed and offered no resistance.

Employe for 5 Years.

Fisher, who has been employed as a $1,740 a year clerk in the auditor's office for the past five years, is alleged to be the guiding genius of the scheme. Plans for the hold-up, giving in minute details the layout of the ground floor of the District Building, which are said to have been drawn by Fisher, are in possession of police.

As the alleged plot was recounted by Inspector Shelby, Fisher is said to have made the acquaintance of Stumm and suggested the hold-up to him. Stumm was to bring in the "mob" to do the job. Information of the plot reached Inspector Shelby and Stumm admitted his part in it and consented to go through with the scheming, using Government agents as the "mob."

Rather than run the risk of having a headquarters' detective recognized by Fisher, Inspector Shelby called in a Postoffice inspector, who on Monday night went with Stumm to the Windemere Apartments, where Fisher makes his home.

Fisher Reveals Plot.

There, Fisher is alleged to have unwittingly outlined the plot to the Postoffice inspector, who posed as a "Brooklyn gangster." At this meeting Fisher is alleged to have suggested a machine gun operator be brought in.

The others consented to do this, and yesterday in the downtown hotel, another Government agent, who posed

TRAFFIC FOR OPERA MOVES SMOOTHLY

Matinee Crowd and Police Benefit by Tuesday's Experience.

Grand opera in the grand manner may be one of those unnecessary luxuries which are first to be hit by an economic depression, but the second performance of the Metropolitan Opera Company in the Fox Theater yesterday afternoon demonstrated either that there is no economic depression in Washington or that opera is a necessity, or perhaps both.

The legislative, executive and judicial branches of the Government, the Diplomatic Corps, professional and business and artistic leadership in the Capital were represented in the audience, as well as that group so generally called society, to say nothing of the others who made the audience one of the largest and smartest to attend a matinee performance of opera here.

Camera men darted about snapping photographs of grand dames and debs and subdebs and their mothers or other escorts. The air of gayety about the gathering was not detracted from by the presence of several motor bus loads of students from fashionable girls' schools in and around Washington.

The audience came to hear Lily Pons, petite French coloratura soprano who set New York agog when she made her debut with the Metropolitan this season; Lucrezia Bori, Beniamino Gigli, Leon Rothier and others sing and act "Mignon."

Perhaps warned by what happened Tuesday night, when more than 3,500 persons tried to get into the theater at the same minute, yesterday's audience began to arrive early and when the overture was begun just about

TWO ARE IDENTIFIED IN LANE DEATH CASE

G. R. Owens, Nephew, Cited as Pair Seen Loitering Near Killing Scene.

Two witnesses of the killing of James H. Lane, street car motorman, last night identified Gary R. Owens and his nephew, Charles A. Owens, as the two persons seen loitering in the vicinity of Nichols avenue and Trenton place southeast on the night of March 18.

The two men were picked from a line-up of seven men at the Eleventh Precinct by Theodore M. Van Sise and George A. Keough, who also live in the vicinity.

Detective John F. Boxwell last night took into custody Aubrey A. Pillsbury, of Silver Hill, Md., an uncle of Charles, with whom he is alleged to have spent the night of the killing. Pillsbury is held for investigation at the Eleventh Precinct.

Charles Owens yesterday made a signed confession of his complicity in the murder. The statement, which was made to Detective Sergt. John A. Flaherty, Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley and Detective Sergt. Thomas Sweeney, reads as follows:

"On March 18 I was at Gary's house. Gary said 'I have to have bread and cigarettes.' Gary then pulled out a gun and put it in his pocket and said to me 'Come on, let's go uptown.' We went to Nichols avenue and Trenton place. There Gary said, 'I have to have some money some way or other.' A street car came toward us and Gary said 'Stand here and I will soon be back.'

"Gary held out his hat to flag the street car. Gary stepped on the street car and I heard a shot and I saw Gary run. The motorman started to run after him."

Raskob's Antitrust Plan Irks Mitchell

Revision to Permit Advanced Approval of Mergers Is Criticized as of "Doubtful Efficacy;" Aggravation of Distress Warned.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 15 (U.P.). Attorney General William D. Mitchell, in an address here tonight, criticized as of "doubtful efficacy" the proposal of Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, for revision of the antitrust laws to permit the Federal Trade Commission to certify approval of business mergers in advance.

The Attorney General hinted Congress could act to meet the situation in some other way and in a general discussion of antitrust laws assured business "we have been impressed by the necessity of using peculiar care to make no unwarranted attacks on any business institution and to so regulate the action that we take as not to unnecessarily or unduly aggravate distress," during this time of depression.

The address, delivered before the Law School Association of the University of Minnesota, was regarded as an administration reply to Mr. Raskob's bid for big business support by his proposed modification of antitrust laws, and thus as a part of the campaign now getting underway for 1932 in which the antitrust issue promises to be prominent.

The tone of Mr. Mitchell's address was one of assurance to business, though he insisted the laws would be enforced and business men should expect no "moratorium." He seemed to take pains to dissipate any impression that he is a "trust-buster."

Mr. Mitchell went beyond the antitrust laws, to which he devoted most attention, and discussed prohibition and other matters under his jurisdiction. The speech praised President Hoover.

Mr. Mitchell criticized Mr. Raskob's antitrust proposal as not designed to achieve its purpose because of the likely necessity of prosecution afterward in some cases where those involved went beyond the plan submitted and approved, as has happened previously in such cases.

He praised Assistant Attorney General A. A. Youngquist and Federal Prohibition Director A. W. W. Woodcock, who share the burden of dry-law enforcement with him, saying "I am not here tonight to discuss the effectiveness of prohibition enforcement or make any claims on the subject except to say that the department is doing its best with a difficult problem and has a sincere and able staff in charge of this work."

President and First Lady Greet Japanese Royalty

Prince and Princess Met at Union Station by High Officials.

(Associated Press.)

Prince Takamatsu, second brother of the Emperor of Japan, was welcomed to Washington yesterday by President Hoover and high Government officials.

The prince, second in line to the throne of Japan, was accompanied by his princess, Kikuko. They are the highest ranking Japanese couple ever to visit the United States.

Arriving at Union Station, during midafternoon, the prince and princess and the imperial party were welcomed by a group of American officials headed by Secretaries Stimson and Adams and the Japanese Embassy staff and local colony headed by Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi.

After a brief rest at the Mayflower Hotel, their official residence during their six days' stay, they went to the White House to be received officially by President and Mrs. Hoover. State Department and military and naval aids attached to the party accompanied them. The formal presentation was made by Ambassador Debuchi.

Breaking age-old precedent, the prince and princess stopped in the hotel for a few minutes for an inas "Jack McHugh," a Brooklyn gangster, was introduced to Fisher as the machine gunner.

From the inception of the plot, Inspector Shelby placed Fisher under constant surveillance, and on Tuesday he was observed in the office of Disbursing Officer James R. Lusby, with no apparent reason for being there.

Plans Are Heard.

Inspector Shelby sent the group of detectives to the hotel, where they heard the following plans, allegedly outlined by Fisher: Fisher was to make sure that the two latches on the doors leading to Thirteenth-and-a-half street were unhooked to permit the entrance of the rest of the gang.

May 30 was selected because the pay roll for the 1st of June would be counted on that day and placed in envelopes. One of the "mob" was to "take care" of the policeman on duty there. Fisher is alleged to have explained to them on a sketch of the office the location of the vaults, the position of the grille work, the place where all guns were kept and the place where the money would be found.

Their escape was to be made over the Highway Bridge into Virginia. Later they were to return to a studio, Inspector Shelby said, to be rented by Fisher, where the pay roll was to be divided. Fisher's share of the loot, Inspector Shelby said, was to be 50 per cent, while Dixon was to get the remaining half for division among the "mob."

Gunman to View Place.

As the conference disbanded the "machine-gun man" was to go to the disbursing office today to look over the place. Other gunmen were to be imported later from Brooklyn, Inspector Shelby said.

At this juncture the Government agent gave the signal to the headquarters detectives, who took their positions before the door.

As Fisher walked toward the door he is alleged to have said: "Well, with a little bit of luck we are sitting right on top of $120,000. Then the door opened and he looked into the revolvers held by the headquarters men.

Fisher and Stumm are charged with soliciting the commission of a felony. Fisher has said nothing since his arrest.

Alfonso King No More, But Invitation Holds

Los Angeles, Calif., April 15 (A.P.). King or commoner, it makes no difference. Alfonso XIII, who yesterday stepped from the throne of Spain, has been asked to attend the one hundred and fifth anniversary fiesta to be staged here next September.

Mayor John C. Porter, who had invited Alfonso as King of Spain, today messaged the cruised Principi Alphonso this: "Some and forget your troubles in the carnival entertainment Los Angeles will provide."

5 Killed, 20 Wounded In Rioting at Tetuan

Tangier, Morocco, April 15 (A.P.). Travelers arriving here from Tetuan today said that five persons were killed and 20 wounded in a riot there yesterday, following the revolution in Spain.

They said the riot resulted when a committee went to the city hall to ask the high commissioner to hoist the Republican flag. The commissioner refused, declaring that he had not received orders from Madrid about the official proclamation of the republic.

Lutherans Pass "Blue" Resolution.

BORDER CITY CHEERS FOR WEEPING QUEEN

Smartly Dressed, Jeweled Victoria Quits Spain in Tears.

Aboard Madrid Express accompanying Queen Victoria to Paris, April 15 (U.P.).—Queen Victoria, consort of deposed King Alfonso of Spain, crossed the frontier into French territory at 9:40 tonight in a third-class coach with four of her children.

As the train drew into the station at Hendaye, on the French-Spanish frontier, the queen as in tears. Her reddened eyes and tear-marked cheeks showed the extent of her grief at her enforced departure from her adopted country.

The children, however, showed little signs of sorrow. Even the Prince of the Asturias, almost carried to the train earlier in the day because of his chronic illness, leaned out of the car window, shaking hands with those in reach among the cheering crowd that greeted the royal train.

Queen Smartly Dressed, Jeweled.

The family was smartly dressed. Queen Victoria and her daughters, the Infantas Beatrice and Maria Cristina, wore dark traveling suits with cloche hats. The queen wore some of her famous pearl necklaces, with gorgeous earrings.

Great precautions were taken by the French police at the station to insure the safety of the royal family. However, their anxiety seemed unwarranted. A thousand Spaniards cheered the queen and her children at the station. There was considerable delay. It was necessary to change from the Spanish train—a relief, for the queen, from the emergency third-class coach to which she had changed en route because of a hot box that developed in the royal salon coach.

Baggage Counts 30 Pieces.

The 30 pieces of baggage that accompanied the royal family were put on the new train. Police sifted through the crowd allowed on the station platform. At first, none was admitted, but the cheers reassured the police somewhat.

Queen Victoria's train is due at Paris at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow. There are 34 persons altogether in the royal party, and an entire floor of the Hotel Meurice, at which King Alfonso always stops, is reserved for them. Spanish nobles have arranged an elaborate welcome at the Paris station.

The Marchioness of Carisbroke, of the British peerage; the queen's major-domo, the Marchioness of Bennana; her lady in waiting, Countess Puerto; the Duke of Maceda and Senorita Carvajal were among those who accompanied the queen to exile.

Prince May Not Survive.

The Prince of Asturias, heir until yesterday to the throne of Spain, was reported in a very much weakened condition, and attending physicians were worried at the irritating delays. It was said that because of his chronic blood trouble, the young prince might not survive the shock of his enforced emigration long.

The royal emigrants, divided by the explosive events of the past two days, moved toward foreign frontiers in various ways. Alfonso, aboard the cruiser Principe Alfonso out of Cartagena, in southern Spain, was reported heading for Marseilles, in southern France, whence he was said to intend proceeding to Paris and London to join his family.

Don Juan, third and youngest son of the king and queen, was said to have gone southward and to be at Gibraltar now, pending an early sailing for England. As far as can be ascertained, the royal family intends to go to London, to live with Princess Beatrice, mother of Victoria.

Exiles Come As Exiles Go.

Meanwhile, thousands of Spanish exiles came through Hendaye on their way back to Spain after years abroad. The border town was a cross-roads, where exiles under the monarchy met exiles fleeing from the republic.

Among exiles returning to Madrid were three members of the new Republican cabinet. They are Indalcio Prieto, minister of finance; Marcelino Domingo, minister of public instruction, and Nicolau D'Oliver, minister of national economy.

They changed trains and went on to Madrid, where they were due tonight.

Prieto told the United Press correspondent that "we won't refuse to recognize the Morgan credits," but he said that he was "personallly convinced that the peseta could have been stabilized by the proper use of Spain's internal resources." The monarchical government recently signed a loan for $60,000,000 with the Morgan financial interests in New York.

No Official Welcome in France.

Paris, April 15 (A.P.).—A request for accommodations for the Queen of Spain and her children, beginning tomorrow morning, has been received by the Hotel Meurice, where King Alfonso usually stays when he is in Paris, hotel officials said today.

As long as former Queen Victoria of Spain remains in France, the government will take no official notice of her, it was officially announced tonight.

A spokesman for the foreign office said the French Government saw no obstacle in the way of recognizing the Spanish provisional government. As soon as Alcala Zamora's government is fully functioning, it was said, under the usual contact with representatives of foreign nations, France is prepared to give it recognition.

American Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who returned to Paris today from a trip through the French provinces of Northern Africa, said there was less excitement at Barcelona as the republic was declared, than there would be "at an American football game." Republican militiamen searched his train to be sure no officials of the former government were attempting to escape the country.

Sevilla, Spain, April 15 (A.P.).—One person was killed and seventeen were badly injured tonight in a battle between Communists and police in San Fernando Square, in the heart of Sevilla. Only one policeman was injured, the other casualtyties being Communists.

The fight followed a political celebration which the Communists were attempting to hold.

SPANISH MONARCH'S AMBASSADOR QUITS

Padilla Resigns Diplomatic Post as King's Overthrow Is Confirmed.

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Padilla of Spain yesterday resigned his diplomatic post as a result of the overthrow of the Spanish monarchy.

The ambassador, who had been in Washington since 1927, submitted his resignation shortly after he had been advised officially of the formation of a republic.

He was a close friend of King Alfonso XIII. The ambassador said his plans were indefinite, but he probably would retire to his estate in San Sebastian, Spain.

Meanwhile the question of according recognition to the new Spanish republic today occupied the attention of the American Government.

Officials followed closely the swift developments which resulted in abdication of the Spanish monarch, but it was said additional information was necessary before a decision could be reached.

In the event the Spanish republis is recognized, it will be necessary to issue new credentials to Irwin B. Laughlin, the American Ambassador to that country, since he now is accredited to the monarchy.

tection. With particular regard to Nicaragua, however, he believes that American interests represented on the east coast have been unusually ready and vociferous in calling for aid and that in offering it the way is opened for abuses and dangers.

As a result of these views, the State Department, it is known, plans to avoid the use of Marines for the protection of property in the Puerto Cabezas area and will rely on the Nicaraguan Guardia Nacionale.

Whether the same attitude will be taken with regard to further Latin-American outbreaks menacing United States property is unknown. Mr. Stimson is understood to feel that each case must be judged on its merits.

Nevertheless, observers here see in the administration's decision not to use Marine forces in sheltering property at Puerto Cabezas a marked departure from the State Department's policy of the last 25 years.

in gold or silver, how much, and whether China would prefer a loan from the Government or private interests.

The committee chairman said he also wanted to obtain the viewpoint of Chinese leaders on the causes of the depression.

"The discussions might involve consideration of reciprocal trade agreements," he added.

Pittman said that in his opinion China rapidly is becoming pacified and the Nationalist government is "making good." "It is capable of furnishing us with one of our largest foreign markets," he said.

Pittman said Swanson and Shipstead would study the silver situation from the European standpoint, and discuss the problem with officials of leading countries, business men and bankers.

They may extend their trip to India, he added, where Great Britain is changing from a silver to a gold standard.

The committee, in its preliminary report, held the Indian situation to be one of the chief causes of the silver depression.

Charles then described the flight across the farm of St. Elizabeths Hospital. Before he left Gary, Charles said, the former said, 'I shot the ——.' That night, Charles said, he stayed at the home of Aubrey Pillsbury. The next morning he went to the home of an uncle, Lancaster Owens, in Giesboro Point. From there he went to Gary's house and then to the Pillsbury home at Oxon Hill and stayed there until Monday morning.

Lane died on Sunday. On Monday, Charles said, he hitch-hiked to Oakley, Md. A colored man gave him a lift, he said. He told the Negro of his complicity in the holdup and murder, he said. He was asked by Lieut. F. M. Dent if he had told anyone else and he replied, "I told William and Raymond Tippet, who live near Oakley."

Charles was confronted with the Tippet brothers and the colored man and he admitted telling the story which they corroborated.

Zamora and Cabinet Who Will Lead Spain

Madrid, April 15 (A.P.).—The provisional government set up in Spain to replace the monarchy is headed by Don Niceto Alcala Zamora, who will take the title of president.

His cabinet contains:

Minister of state, Alejandro Lerroux.

Minister of treasury, Indalecio Prieto.

Minister of war, Manuel Azana.

Minister of justice, Fernando de los Rios.

Minister of navy, Casares Quiroga.

Minister of niterior, Miguel Maura.

Minister of instruction, Marcelino Domingo.

Minister of communications, Martinez Barrios.

Minister of economy, Nicolau Dolwer.

Minister of promotion, Alvaro Albornoz.

Barcelona, April 15 (A.P.).—While the people were joyously celebrating the establishment of a provisional government of the Catalonian republic with Col. Francisco Macia as president, three persons were killed and five badly wounded in labor clashes in Barcelona today.

Undismayed by the labor disputes, the people danced and sangin the streets while planes flew above Barcelona, fluttering the new republic colors. The federation of labor called a general strike, but leaders said this was only for a period of 24 hours. However, martial law was proclaimed here after two persons were killed last night in a clash with police.

Late today the line-up of the provisional government was announced. In addition to Col. Macia the government has the following cabinet members:

Minister of domestic policies—Ventura Gassol.

Minister of public instruction—Rafael Camapolons.

Minister of defense—Juan Casanova.

Minister of economy—Sensa.

Minister of public works—Vidal Rosell.

Minister of the treasury—Casaneuva Girault.

Minister of commerce—Manuel Navarro.

Today's labor casualties occurred when rival syndicates met on the street and shot it out. The two groups, "the Free Syndicate" and "the Only Syndicate," have been struggling for supremacy in Catalona for the last eight years. Authorities said the fight was a purely labor quarrel and had no connection with the proclamation of the republic.

Today's celebrations were comparatively orderly after last night's disturbance, when a detail of police guard fired into a crowd of celebrators after protesting against their excesses. Several persons were wounded in addition to the two killed. The crowd of several thousand demanded the release of all political prisoners and tried to burn the jail.

All military prisoners have been ordered released by thhe new government. Those confined at Jaca are expected here soon. Orders also have been issued to disarm the royal militia.

The new Catalonian government is preparing decrees for the organization of the university, which already has been declared autonomous. The General Confederation of Workers has declared that its members would return to work tomorrow, but added that the new regime does not fill the aspirations of their federation. It was added the organization reserved the right to work against the regime.

Prisoner's Charges Held Untrue.

Hagerstown, Md., April 15 (Special). Charges filed with Sanford Bates, director of Federal prisons, by Federal prisoners incarcerated in the Hagerstown Jail, were found untrue by a Government inspector sent here by Bates, Sheriff Bruce Dowin announced today after an investigation completed this noon.

City Light Plant Shows Profit.

Hagerstown, Md., April 15 (Special). The Hagerstown municipal electric light plant returned to the city a net profit of $120,747 last year, according to a report submitted today to the board of street commissioners. The plant is valued at $1,069,187, with a total liability of but $370,087.

most of those were joining in the festivities.

The new ministry conferred throughout the day on their tremendous task of converting a weakened monarchy into a stable republic. It was announced decrees would be passed abolishing all titles of nobility and dissolving the status of life members of the senate, appointed by the retired monarch.

Their program provides for the right to condemn and purchase property needed for public welfare. If carried out, it may mean the spliting up of the large estates of the grandees and their sale in small lots to the people.

Elections Are Planned.

The government's tentative plan is to hold parliamentary elections at some date not yet decided, allow the Parliament as a constitutional convention to write the permanent constitution and then either by direct vote of the people or by the action of Parliament name a constitutional cabinet to replace the present "provisional government."

The full text of the government's manifesto follows:

1. In order to show the democratic origin of its power and in view of the fesponsibility in which all organs of the State should move, the government will submit its collective and individual acts to the sanction of a constitutional cortes—the supreme and direct organ of the national will—and when the hour arrives the government will turn over to the Cortes its powers.

2. To respond to the just and unsatisfied desires of Spain, the provisional government resolves immediately to submit to a purifying examination in defense of public welfare and interests all the judgments, responsibilities, acts, operations of authority which were left pending by the Parliament dissolved in 1923, and other previous parliaments, open a means of revision in official organizations whether civil or military, in order that all department of government will be free from prevarication and arbitrary judgments which were habitual in the regime just ended.

To Respect Religion.

3. The provisional government makes public its decision to respect fully the individual conscience, liberty of cults and creeds, the state not being authorized at any moment to ask its citizens what their personal religious beliefs may be.

4. The provisional government will orientate its activities not only in respect of personal liberty as guaranteed by our constitution concerning the rights of men, but it will also endeavor to enlarge such liberties and rights adopting guarantees of protection for these rights, one of which is the modern principle of law, that of personal and collective association the basis of all social rights.

5. The provisional government declares that private property is guaranteed by law, and in consequence it will not be appropriated unless there is cause for public utility and with previous proper indemnity. The government is cognizant of the absolute neglect in which the farming masses have been left, the little interest shown in the agrarian economy of the country and the incongruity of the law pertaining to such, with modern principles of legislation, and it therefore adopts as a standard the recognition of agrarian rights which should respond to the social function of all land.

Finance Account Soon.

6. The provisional government, in view of the reasons justifying the fullness of its power, would regard it a veritable crime were it to abandon the newly born republic to those who from strong secular position and taking advantage of their means, may render difficult its consolidation, and therefore the provisional government may subordinate their rights.

As to the regime of the finances of the government, a detailed account will be given to the constitutional cortes.

(Signed.)

Niceto Alcala Zamora, provisional president.

Alejandro Lerroux, minister of foreign relations.

Fernando de los Rios, minister of justice.

Manuel Azana, minister of the navy.

Miguel Laura, minister of interior.

Alvaro Albornoz, minister of public works.

Francisco Largo Caballero, minister of labor.

Alcala Zamora's ministry has not scratched the surface of the enormous amount of work confronting it. Reorganization, problems and policies demand their quick attention after such a drastic change in state affairs. The government itself does not yet know what its detailed program will be in many fields.

Others Not Decided.

What to do about the Catalan republic and the movement in Bilbao for a Basque state is not decided. These two theoretical republics are functioning so far as a part of Spain. Whether they will establish themselves literally as independent republics among the world's nations or while calling themselves republics really operate as autonomous states within Spain remains to be seen.

The cabinet has decreed it has the power to make any government office appointments it deems necessary without outside intervention until a parliament is elected and drafts a definite plan for the future.

Scores of royalist families and members of the aristocracy were moving out of the nation to take up their residence abroad. Some of the stanchest anti-Republicans were reported in hiding, estates were being closed and servants dismissed.

Conversely, hundreds of political exiles were returning to help establish the principles for which they were banished or fled. Among these were Capt. Ramon Franco, Spain's leading aviator, who received an uproarious ovation when he arrived today. Later, he returned the compliment with an exhibition of stunt flying above the city, looping the loop among buildings and delighting the people with his daring.

Political Prisoners Freed.

Hundreds of political prisoners were freed when jails swung open throughout the nation in response to the government's declaration of amnesty. Common law offenders were not liberated and Communists in several cities staged disturbances in their behalf.

An order for the arrest of former Premier Damaso Berenguer was reported to have been drawn, but he was said to have left the country. Gen. Emilio Mola, former chief of police in Madrid, was arrested in Aranjuez as he was attempting to leave the country. He was judged by Republicans to have been too severe during the recent riots among students.

Claiming the distinction of being the first revolutionary to radiocast his rise to power, Senor Alcala Zamora ordered all announcers to transmit frequent bulletins concerning the state of tranquillity and the developments in the official situation. The Marseillaise and the Hymn of Riego were sung on many programs.

Termed National Heroes.

Pictures of Capt. Galan and Garcia Hernandez, executed after the Jaca revolt, were carried in many parades and they were paid homage as martyrs to the republic and national heroes.

For the most part, however, the street processions struck a note of gayety. Helmetless policemen rode on trucks wearing Republican colors and waving red flags, while their civilian friends donned police equipment. The police force apparently went over en masse to the Republican movement, inasmuch as it has done nothing since yesterday, but celebrate with the crowds.

Some of the vehicles carried figures of former Premier Primo de Rivera, retiring Secretary of State Romanones and Senor Berenguer being hung in effigy. Other groups of celebrants staged mock funerals over their "bodies." No such treatment was applied to Alfonso and his name hardly ever was heard.

Most of the women wore big red tissue paper bows in their hair. Every one tried to wear a necktie, cap or sweater of a red color and carry a red republican flag. The hue does not signify a leaning toward Communism, but typifies the political lefts and opposition to monarchy.

Coats of Arms Covered.

Spain usually has three hours for lunch. It took the establishment of the republic to change that, even for one day. Everybody just grabbed a sandwich and went on parading. It probably was the only time in history that Madrid's streets were so animated between the hours of 1 and 4 in the afternoon.

All shops with signs containing the crown or the royal coat of arms covered them over with red flags. All day long workmen were busy removing from government buildings every bit of royal insignia. A large crowd gathered in front of the great iron gates leading to the ministry of war as two overalled laborers took down the huge iron crown, long a symbol of the monarchy.

One workman stood on the head of the statue of justice and another on the statue of war, two figures at the sides of the gates, as they unscrewed the crown. As the last screw was ready to come out, one of the workmen turned and surveyed the throng dramatically, holding out his hand for silence, like an orator.

Instantly the crowd became silent, and the leading actor in a great bit of histrionics slowly twisted out the last screw. The crown of Spain toppled to the pavement in front of the war office. Then somebody grabbed it for a souvenir, and the people cheered and sang their approval.

The Catalonian problem occupied the cabinet for some time tonight.

President Alcala Zamora told Francisco Macia, provisional President of Catalonia, the cabinet could not consent to Catalonia's independence until the issue had been discussed by the new Parliament.

Foreign Minister Lerroux was designated to settle the details of this issue and Macia agreed to negotiate with him, although he did not promise definitely to bring his government under the Alcala Zamora cabinet.

It was reported tonight that an order had been issued for the arrest of former Premier Damaso Berenguer, but it was said he had fled to Portugal.

alighted. With terrific force, the disintegrating plane battered through the roof, two second-story rooms and through the first floor to bury itself in the ground.

In the kitchen, virtually the only untouched corner of the house, five persons were laughing and joking, luckily congregated around the stove for the moment after having been constantly preparing the dining room table for a meal. The table was splintered.

They included May Stewart, 26 years old, owner of the house; her husband, Harold Stewart, 29 years old; their 3-year-old daughter Betty; Harriet Marshall, 60 years old, and Henry Williams, 26 years old. In the house next door, 1016 Sumner road, part of a falling wing broke a window, narrowly missing Henrietta Russell, 25 years old. All are colored.

Hovgard, lying in the Naval sick bay, described to newspapermen his jumbled emotions. He said that just before he jumped he throttled the engine, an act which he said undoubtedly saved an explosion and fire. He appeared none the worse for his experience, but burst into tears when C. T. Porter, vice president of the Keystone Co., came to his bedside.

"Gosh, chief, how I hated to crack it up," he sobbed. "Just think, 800 hours up, seven years flying, and this is the first time."

Lieut. Comdr. J. J. Clark, acting commanding officer at the Naval Air Station, assisted by Lieut. A. P. Storrs and Lieut. A. B. Smith, superintended the salvage operations and the emergency aid for Hovgard.

The accident brought to the scene police from several precincts and firemen from several nearby stations, in addition to a large crowd.

Auto Blaze Injures Mechanic.

Clarence Green, colored, was painfully burned last night in Branchville, Md., when an auto under which he was working caught fire. After being given first aid by members of the Branchville Fire Department, he was removed to Providence Hospital and treated for burns on the hands, legs and body. His condition is not serious. The auto was destroyed.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

U. S. MARINES LAND AT NICARAGUAN PORT

Native of Maryland Listed Among Nine Americans Slain by Bandits.

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, April 15 (A.P.).—Heavily armed insurgent bands in the hills of northeast Nicaragua have killed nine Americans and an undetermined number of natives since last Saturday, but today United States Marines landed from the U. S. S. Asheville to protect the citizens of this port.

Refugees from the sector in which the attackers are operating said the band descended early Saturday morning on the settlement at Logtown, 70 mils from here.

The Americans killed were:
Capt. Fefley, Philadelphia.
W. H. Bond, jr., Sarasota, Fla.
Percy Davis, Hammond, La.
Hubert Wilson, New Orleans.
J. D. Phelps, Baton Rouge, La.
J. H. Bryan, Clinton, Md.
"Rip" Davis, of Mississippi.
William Selser, Florida.
J. M. Sagastrumi, Guatemala City, believed to be an American citizen.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson announced yesterday that the gunboat Asheville would remain at Puerto Cabezas, on the east coast of Nicaragua, to provide an asylum to insure the safety of American and other foreign lives endangered by the approach of insurgent forces.

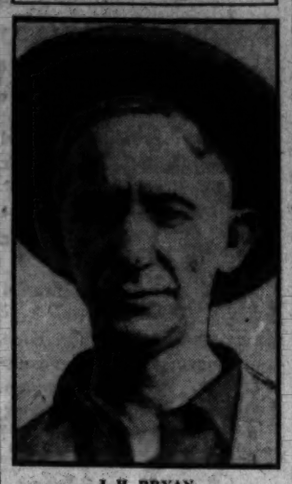
The inhabitants of the port were still panic stricken, according to a dispatch from the commander of the Asheville, made public by Mr. Stimson. The commander reported the landing force of marines put ashore Tuesday as authorized by the State Department, returned aboard the gunboat after detachments of Nicaraguan Guardia had come back into the city Tuesday afternoon.

Secretary Stimson also made public a report from Minister Hanna at Managua, who said he had been informed by Brig. Gen. Calvin B. Matthews, commander of the Nicaraguan Guardia, that there had been considerable movements of bandits in the direction of Puerto Cabezas. Gen. Matthews said, however, that with the military dispositions now existing the situation was believed to be under satisfactory control.

Forest Fires Are Checked.

Cumberland, Md., April 15 (Special).—The office of District Forester H. C. Buckingham announced today that the forest fires that had been raging on Polish Mountain and Haystack Mountain were under control after several days of fighting. There have been small fires in many sections which prompt work controlled. Reports tell of much game being driven out by flames.

DIES IN REVOLT



J. H. BRYAN.

MARYLAND CITIZEN KILLED IN NICARAGUA

J. H. Bryan, Who Served on Tacna-Arica Body, Dies in Latin Rebellion.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., April 15.—J. H. Bryan, who was reported today to have been killed in the Nicaraguan rebellion, was appointed a member of the Tacna-Arica Commission, named in 1925, to act as mediator in the boundary dispute between Chile and Peru, Mrs. Thomas H. Lyons, his sister, of Clinton, Md., said.

The appointment was considered a recognition, the sister said, of his intimate knowledge of Central and South American affairs, gained by 30 years' experience in the tropics.

Unofficial news of the death of Mr. Bryan reached his sister just one day after she had received a letter from him, stating when his year of service as superintendent for the Bragman Bluff Lumber Co. in Nicaragua would be up, and that he was sailing soon for home. The letter was written Easter Sunday. Mr. Bryan was then in the interior. His year up on April 13, he said he was leaving for the coast on April 15, where he would sail for home four days later. Mr. Bryan's home was that of his sister in Clinton.

Mr. Bryan had a number of investments in tropical enterprises, including one in a banana plantation at Elcocal, near Bluefields. He was born in the Prince Georges County town of Surrattsville, now Clinton, and was reared there until he was 17 years old. At that time he joined the Navy and served one enlistment. Immediately after his service was over, he left for the tropics.

Mr. Bryan was 50 years old. He made his last visit to Maryland a year ago last February. He has two brothers, Joseph L. Bryan and William P. Bryan, living in Washington, and a sister, Mrs. M. L. Duff, of Panama. He was unmarried.

West Virginia Woman Near Death in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., April 15 (A.P.).—A hospital here today reported a woman registered as Miss Margery Doss, of Owens, W. Va., was near death of poison.

Hospital authorities quoted her as saying her true name is Mrs. Margery Kaufman, and that grief over separation from her husband led her to swallow poison at a hotel here yesterday.

She said she was driving from Washington, D. C., to Portland, Oreg., to visit a sister when she stopped here.

ALEXANDRIA'S MAYOR AGAIN RESIGNS POST

Pierce, Who Withdrew His Decision Once, Tenders Letter Second Time.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 523.

Mayor Carroll Pierce, whose resignation as a member of the city council was submitted on March 25, to become effective April 1, and was then withdrawn on April 2, as the mayor was about to take a train for Florida on account of ill health, has again been submitted, and will be acted upon at the meeting of the council today. Mayor Pierce's letter, which is addressed to Vice Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, and postmarked St. Petersburg, Fla., follows:

"The withdrawal on April 2, 1931, for the time being, of my resignation as a member of the city council of Alexandria, Va., tendered March 25, 1931, was to save the council any embarrassment that might arise by the resignation of Mr. Fannon, thus reducing the membership to three, and not because of a change of mind, therefore I now desire that action be taken on the resignation as tendered March 25, 1931.

"It is with deep regret that I make this request, but it is imperative that I do less work. I do so with reluctance, because I have enjoyed my association with the members of the council, and the work, but can not see my way clear to go against the advice of my physician."

The resignation of Councilman Thomas J. Fannon, submitted April 2, and held over by the council when the news of the withdrawal of Mayor Pierce's resignation was received, will also come up for action of the council today, and this will leave two vacancies to be filled by election of the council. While several names have been mentioned as possible successors to the two retiring members, none of the three remaining members have indicated that a choice has been made.

Councilman Edmund F. Ticer, vice mayor and acting mayor, is slated to be elected mayor today and, in view of the reticence of the councilmen in discussing the matter, it is regarded as probable that only one member will be elected today, and that this new member will have a voice in the election to fill the other vacancy at a later meeting.

Mr. Ticer is local agent for the Southern Railway, is 43 years old and has been a member of the governing body of Alexandria since October, 1918, being the only one of the present council who served under the old form of government which was abandoned for the council-manager form of city government on September 1, 1922. He was elected to the council under the new form of government, and is the only one remaining of the original five members, the others being William Albert Smoot, who served as mayor for eight years; Robert S. Jones, who succeeded Mr. Smoot as mayor and who died recently; Thomas J. Fannon, whose resignation will be acted upon today, and Arthur H. Bryant, who served one term of four years and declined to be a candidate for reelection, being succeeded by J. E. W. Timberman, who also retired after serving one four-year term.

The terms of Messrs. Ticer, Arthur Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond, present members, will expire August 31, 1934, and the terms of those elected to fill the vacancies will expire August 31, 1932.

The petitions addressed to Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Circuit Court, asking that he call a special election to decide whether Alexandria shall return to the old form of mayor-and-council government, will be presented in about ten days, according to announcement made yesterday by sponsors of the movement, which has been on foot for several months. It was explained that there are now 100 more will be put out at oncecmfwc petitions being circulated, that 50 more will be put out at once and that already more than the 20 per cent of the qualified voters required to call an election have signed the petitions. Before the petitions are turned in to Judge McCarthy the names of those signing will be checked to ascertain whether they are qualified voters.

It is understood that a majority of those favoring the change have in mind a council composed of twelve members, or two from each of six wards, and a mayor, the latter to serve in the capacity of city manager, with a regular salary of probably $3,000 a year, to give his entire time to the city and relieve the council of all details of city management.

One of the main objectives of the proponents of the change will, it is understood, be to hold down expenditures and not create any new debts unless absolutely unavoidable. Many of the present employes of the city, it is understood, are proposed to be dropped and efforts made to show a substantial saving in the city pay roll.

Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson was elected president of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the annual meeting Tuesday night in the George Mason Hotel. She succeeds Mrs. Mary W. Troth. Mrs. D. C. Book is vice president; Miss Adelyn Apperson, treasurer; Miss Anita Noble, recording secretary, and Miss Florence A. Long, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. J. K. Bowman, vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and general chairman for the biennial convention to be held in Richmond, Va., July 6 to 11, was the speaker and gave a message of preparation for the entertainment by Virginia of this convention, Virginia being the smallest State membership ever to entertain a national gathering.

Women of seventeen different countries are planning to attend the biennial meeting, and one of the main features will be the international breakfast.

Alexandria will play an important part in presenting the gigantic pageant. Miss Alice Gronau, of the local club, is chairman, assisted by other club members, and on Friday, July 10, the night of presentation, the Alexandria Club members will be hostesses.

The pageant will be given in the Mosque, and followed by the grand ball, the closing event of the week, the sightseeing tours of Virginia starting on Saturday. The delegates will have the opportunity of visiting all points of historic interest in the State. At Williamsburg arrangements have been made for a luncheon to 1,500 persons in the dining hall of William and Mary College.

This evening in the auditorium of the Virginia Public Service Co.'s Building, Miss Anita Noble, Miss Rietta Butler, Miss Esther Moore, Miss Irma Wolf and Mrs. Norman Simpson, will give a card party. Tomorrow evening from 10 to 1 o'clock, Miss Edith Whitton, Mrs. Edgar S. Bayol, Mrs. Mayrie Logan and Miss Evangeline Griesmer will give a dance in the same auditorium, and on Monday eevning, April 20, Miss Florence A. Long, Mrs. Walter Henry Cloe, Mrs. Rathbone Smith and Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson will give a card party in the Virginia Public Service auditorium.

William Albert Smoot, former mayor of Alexandria, has been chosen chairman of the Alexandria United Charities, to succeed the late Robert S. Jones. A meeting, which was presided over by Thomas Chauncey, treasurer, received the lattre's report, which shows receipts since March 24 to have been $1,421.98, and expenditures of $926.23, with a balance on hand April 14 of $495.15, although it was explained that there are many outstanding bills which will use up practically all this balance.

If the work of the organization is to continue, it was announced, more funds must be contriubted at once. Only the most worthy cases can now be given aid, owing to the lack of funds.

Treasurer Chauncey stated that the response to letters recently mailed out to Alexandria citizens has been prompt and gratifying, and it is the hope of the members of the organization that considerable additional money will be received. The cost of printing and mailing the letters was borne by one of the members of the organization.

Two colored women, living in adjoining houses on Potomac street, died yesterday under circumstances which led Police Campt. Campbell to suspect that their death was caused by poisoned whisky, and an investigation is now being conducted.

The first was Annie Ford, of No. 1 Potomac street, who was taken to the Alexandria Hospital in an unconscious condition by neighbors at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and died a few minutes after reaching there. City Coroner T. Marshall Jones issued a certificate of death from natural causes.

At 2:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon the second woman, Syvilla Sheppard, living at No. 2 Potomac street, was taken to the hospital in a taxicab by neighbors and died ten minutes after reaching there. Dr. Samuel B. Moore, at the request of Capt. Campbell, took some of the fluid from her stomach and this has been sent to Washington for anlysis.

ASPHYXIATED

PRESTON B. RAY.

GAS FATAL TO COURT CLERK IN ROCKVILLE

Preston B. Ray Succumbs as Efforts to Revive Him Are Futile.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Preston B. Ray, clerk of the Circuit Court at Rockville, who polled at the last election the largest vote ever given a candidate in Montgomery County, died yesterday at his home in Rockville from the effects of asphyxiating gas. He is believed to have suffered a heart attack as he was lighting the gas stove to make coffee. According to police, a coffee pot was found on the stove, with a burnt match nearby.

Members of the Kensington Rescue Squad and the District Fire Rescue Squad worked several hours but were unable to revive him.

Mr. Ray had attended the morning session of Circuit Court and when he went out to lunch told Clayton K. Watkins to sit in the afternoon session as he had a conference with Wilson L. Townsend, Washington attorney, regarding the settling of his brother's estate. Following his conference at which he appeared to be tired, Mr. Townsend said, he went to lunch with Alton Bell, a clerk in the office of the Montgomery County Commissioners. He appeared in good spirits. About 2 o'clock he asked Mr. Bell to drive him to his home for a short rest before returning to the courthouse.

About 3:30 o'clock his son, Preston H. Ray, jr., and a friend, Stedman Prescott, jr., son of the county State's attorney, went to the house. Young Prescott smelled gas and began investigating. Young Prescott then peered into the kitchen, where he saw the form of Mr. Ray, slumped in a chair.

The boys ran to the Colonial funeral home of William Reuben Pumphrey, who hurried to the house and took Mr. Ray to the back porch. The Kensington Rescue Squad went to the scene and started using its pulmotor. The Washington Rescue Squad later was summoned with additional oxygen. Both squads worked on Mr. Ray, but at 6 o'clock attending physicians, Dr. G. V. Hartley and Dr. D. M. Bullard, of Rockville, pronounced him dead.

Death Is Mourned.

stunned the residents of Rockville. Business practically stopped while anxious groups awaited word from the home. A large crowd gathered about the house.

At the courthouse, where he had handled the court business for more than 16 years, a scene of bewilderment presented itself. The six girls employed in his office refused to believe that Mr. Ray was dying until word came at 6 o'clock announcing his death.

Throughout Montgomery County last night the news was spread that "Pres" Ray was dead. In most quarters his friends refused to believe that he had died, but finally stopped to mourn.

Corporal in Infantry.

He was a corporal in the Montgomery County Co. K, Maryland Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American War and was a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Order of Washington, the Kensington Lodge of Masons, the Maryland Bar and the District Bar.

Mr. Ray is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nancy Schurman Ray; a son, Preston B. Ray, jr., a daughter, Miss Janet Calvert Ray; three brothers, Alfred Ray, of Kensington; Gordon Ray, of Myattsville, and Benton G. Ray, of Happy Creek, near Front Royal, Va., and four sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Maughlin, of Boyd; Mrs. Elma R. Saul, of Washington; Mrs. Clara R. Wilson, of Rockville, and Mrs. Annettt Thomson, of Washington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in Rockville. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery, Washington.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

FLEMING REPLIES TO CLEMENTS SIUT

Admits Transfer of Assets, but Claims He Acted in Good Faith.

Admitting that he transferred the assets of the H. C. Fleming Motor Co. to the Fleming Motor and Utility Co., but claiming that he did so on advice of counsel and in good faith, to preserve them, Harry C. Fleming yesterday filed an answer to a suit instituted by Leroy C. Clements in Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

Fleming claims the transfer was made after Clements had said "he would not obligate himself further" and that he was "through with the business." Clements, as minority stockholder of the motor company, had alleged Fleming was attempting to wreck that organization by turning ove rits property and business to the Fleming Motor & Utility Co.

Raymon S. Czarra, who says he was sued illegally as Raymond Czarra, and Robert A. Philipson, codefendants with Fleming and his wife in the original bill, also filed answer yesterday.

Reviews History of Companies.

Fleming's answer is a history of the two companies. The plaintiff's father, Robert Clements, loaned $5,100 to Fleming in 1926 when the motor company was first formed to operate the business of associate dealer of the Semmes Motor Co. in Washington, according to the answer.

At the same time, Robert Clements agreed to buy 40 shares of stock for himself and 9 shares for his son, Leroy, the plaintiff. It was further agreed, Fleming says, that Clements should not assign his stock without giving Fleming a chance to buy it first at a price depending on the condition of the company.

Fleming claims he was not tendered the 40 shares held by Mrs. Mattie Clements, which was the lot Clements had agreed to take, before they were turned over to Leroy Clements. For this reason, he says, Clements does not legally own the stock on the basis of which he sues. Fleming, however, offers to give to Clements stock in the Motor & Utility Co. equal to the amount of stock he claims in the motor company.

Fleming explains that the Motor & Utility Co. was formed in 1930 when an audit had shown the motor company "practically hopelessly insolvent" with a loss of 44.4 cents on the dollar necessary. It was at this time, Fleming says, that Clements withdrew himself from the affairs of the motor company, and told Fleming to do with the business "as he saw fit and proper."

Charges Plot to Hurt Firm.

Fleming alleges that the Clements suit was filed, not to protect the interest of the creditors, but to injure the utility company, and that Clements has done everything possible to wreck this organization. Clements has also publicly stated he would "ruin" Fleming, the latter says.

Fleming says that if the suit is withdrawn, the utility company will be able in time to pay the creditors of the motor company, and says further that money put into the utility company by Czarra has been used in part to settle accounts against the motor company. He says that neither Czarra nor Philipson had anything to do with the transfer of the motor company assets to the utility company. He also says that Clements was elected secretary of the motor company and Mrs. Hattie Clements was elected treasurer, and that informal meetings of the directors were held on several occasions. The records of these, he says, should have been kept by Clements.

Philipson owns no stock in the utility company, the answer says, although he is a director and secretary. Czarra owns $2,700 worth of stock, however. The answer filed by these two says the same. Attorneys W. J. Neale and George B. Merrick appear for both defendants.

A separate answer filed some time ago by Raphael Semmes, another codefendant, stated that he held no stock in either of the Fleming companies and was not a preferred creditor.

CITIZENS TO OFFER PLAN FOR SOLVING PARKING PROBLEM

Space in Unused Buildings, Garages and Underground Rooms Urged for Autos.

SHORT PERIODS BACKED AS BEST AID TO PUBLIC

Committee Points to Need of Making Provision for Visiting Motorists.

Provision of parking space in unused buildings and the erection of parking garages in the congested area, together with a study as to the advisability of creating parking spaces under public parks, will be proposed by a special committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations at its meeting Saturday night, it was learned yesterday.

The committee, named several weeks ago following the action of the District Commissioners in adopting the three-zone parking plan, has made an exhaustive study of the proposals, and in its report recommends that the plan be given a fair trial.

The charging of a small fee for parking space in the proposed garages beneath the parks is suggested to cover the operating cost and to amortize capital expenditure over a period of 50 years or more. The present establishment of parking buildings is recommended both for public and private enterprise.

Short-Period Plan Urged.

Taking the position that it would be impossible for all the workers in the congested areas to park their automobiles in the three zones, even if parking were unlimited, the committee asserts that a greater majority will be served by restricted parking to short periods. More motorists and business establishments in the area affected will benefit from the hour-parking limitation, it is predicted.

Convenience of the tourists and visitors must be taken into consideration, as well as the welfare of workers who bring their cars to their places of employment daily, the report states.

After calculating the number of squares and the amount of parking space in the three zones, the committee states that not more than 8,000 automobiles can be parked within the 120 squares of the three zones. This calculation is based on an allowance of 15 feet for each car, besides 3 feet space between cars, and was reached after deductions had been made for fireplugs and intersection setbacks.

Much Space Lost.

The report shows that approximately seven cars can be parked in the area now reserved for about three, but the committee backs the Commissioners in prohibiting the angle parking.

Basing their computations on figures submitted last year by Dr. Miller McClintock, the committee members contend that on a basis of 40.2 per cent of workers owning their own cars there are nearly 50,000 such autos in use in the Capital. Most of these, of course, would be in the congested area.

Offsetting this, the committee recalls that 268,671 vehicles were counted entering an area bounded by L, Sixth, B and Nineteenth streets northwest between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., on April 24, 1930.

The committee which has drawn up this report comprised Edwin S. Hedge, chairman; Agee Bowles and George R. Wales.

Dynamite May Be Used To Find Body in River

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 15.—Unable to locate the body of Chester A. Giles, 45, who disappeared while on a fishing expedition with friends last Saturday night, West Virginia authorities today planned to seek assistance from Maryland with the hope of dynamiting the Potomac River at a point north of this county and south of Washington County in Maryland.

Giles and his friends, after fishing several hours, had wrapped up in blankets and retired. A few hours later an unusual noise in the placid waters of the Potomac awoke the West Virginians and Giles was discovered missing. All day Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the river was dragged unsuccessfully.

formal interview with a group of newspapermen. Through an interpreter, the prince expressed his pleasure at being in the United States and his gratification at the welcome extended in New York.

His talk with President Hoover during the call at the White House was private, but informal. It was devoted to personal exchanges between the Chief Executive and the 26-year-old prince.

During the day the prince wore formal dress. Last night he wore the usual evening dress for a state dinner at the White House, except for the ribbon of the Grand Cordon of the Order of the Chrysanthemum of Japan, hung from the left shoulder across the chest.

The prince will appear in uniform only once during his visit. He will be attired as a lieutenant in the Japanese navy when he visits the Naval Academy at Annapolis Friday. He is the imperial family's representative in the Japanese navy.

The Post's Bridge Contest Aided by Famous Women

Enthusiasm of Mrs. Charles Keene and Mrs. James Lee Shelton Assures Success of First Tournament for Washington Players.

Renewed assurance of success of the First Annual Bridge Tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post, was given yesterday when two of the most famous and best qualified women bridge players of the country, Mrs. Charles Keene and Mrs. James Lee Shelton, both of whom are residents of the Capital, announced that their services would be available in assisting the committee on arrangements in preparing the program for the event.

Both Mrs. Keene and Mrs. Shelton have had wide experience in managing tournaments and in the method of duplicate playing. It is probable that entries will be closed about May 1, inasmuch as ten days or two weeks will be required to perfect the schedule of events, to compile and classify lists of entrants, and to work out the many details that are necessary in order to insure a smooth-running series of games which will determine bridge superiority in the District of Columbia, both in contract and in auction.

This will leave the players themselves nothing to do or to think about, except to concentrate on playing the game. The movement of participants from one table to another after a specified number of boards have been played, and exchange of boards in regular order so that each team will have opportunity of playing hands that every other team has used, is a matter that is best handled by those who have had the direction of similar events, in which respect both Mrs. Keene and Mrs. Shelton are experts. Their enthusiasm over the tournament has led them to announce their hearty cooperation in the tourney.

Played Whist as Child of 8.

Mrs. Shelton began playing whist as a child of 8 in her home in Richmond, Va. Her tutor was her father, who was one of the best whist players in the South. At the age of 10 she could play as well as many of her elders. Since that time she has steadily progressed through all forms of the game. She has not only played in many cities in the United States but extensively abroad, especially when she resided in Rome.

It was there that she first met Ely Culbertson, now recognized as one of the "Big Six" in the bridge world. He was then a lad of 8, living with his American father and Russian mother in Russia. Years afterward, when Mrs. Shelton, who was one of the pioneers in the organization of classes for instruction of bridge, opened a studio in the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York, Mr. Culbertson came to her, and she had the distinction of starting him on the bridge career which has made him famous and wealthy.

"I was in New York," said Mr. Shelton, "when The Post made its announcement of the Washington Tournament. A friend sent me a copy of the paper and I was very much delighted. I returned to Washington a few days ago and now I am heart and soul in this undertaking, and it will afford me much pleasure to aid in perfecting arrangements and in preparing the program of events. Many of my friends here who are prominent in society have conferred with me in regard to the tournament and are highly enthusiastic about it.

Some Are Taking Lessons.

"Some have asked for coaching lessons and others who are entering I know do not require any tutoring. Washington has played and is playing a great deal of bridge socially; that is, in the homes and in the clubs, and the players need contact with others to develop the best that is in them. This tournament will afford them just what they require in this respect. From the wealth of material available in Washington with the great number of prominent people in society and in politics, the National Capital should be the bridge center of the country. At least it should vie with New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland, each of which boasts large numbers of experts.

"The thing that I am hopeful of seeing, and which there is every reason to believe will result from this undertaking, is the organization of two or three exclusively bridge clubs. Then we will produce players that can cope with the best there are in the bridge field. The game is becoming so popular, and so many are anxious to play good bridge, as a social accomplishment, that I am surprised no one has undertaken a tournament before. I have no doubt but that it will become an annual event, as it should. I will help to that end all that I can."

Spirit of the Game Takes Hold.

As a result of the attitude taken by such prominent players as Mrs. Keene and Mrs. Shelton, Washington players have become inoculated with the spirit of bridge. If you are one of them don't fail to "get in the game." Fill out the entry blank printed daily in The Post and send it in before it is necessary to close the list of entries.

Select your partners and teammates and begin practice. Even the best of players need practice. If in your judgment you are an advanced player, either at contract or acution, classify yourself as such and put your skill to the test with others of like opinion regarding themselves.

Should you think that there are others who are better at the game than yourself, then enter the intermediate class where there will be just as much fun and just as much enjoyment, and the same opportunity to win a trophy or prize, for the experts are to be separated from the average players and will contest for honors in their own class. This plan equalizes opportunity and gives every one a fair chance. You will miss a big event if you fail to qualify for entry in the tournament.

The dates are May 14, 15 and 16, and the place the handsome New Shoreham Hotel.

Train Kills Boy, Injures Another

Youthful Runaway Wards' Flight Is Ended by Virginia Tragedy.

One colored boy was killed and another injured by a train near Lynchburg, Va., early yesterday. Both, wards of the Board of Public Welfare, ran away Tuesday from the place where they were boarding at Clifton, Va.

George Ellis, 13 years old, was instantly killed by the train. His mother is at the Home for the Aged. Wilbur Boyd, 11 years old, was seriously injured. His foster parents live on Oakdale street, near Fourth street northwest.

It is believed that they hitchhiked their way to Lynchburg from Clifton.

Catches in Chesapeake Hindered by Sea Nettles

Special to The Washington Post.

Rock Hall, Md., April 15.—With thousands of sea nettles infesting the waters of the Chesapeake Bay watermen are almost despairing of taking anything like the usual catch of herring and shad from Maryland's inland sea this season.

Nettles not only have interfered with the normal movement of schools of fish during the last seven weeks but also have hampered watermen generally and have torn nets at all fishing towns in this vicinity. As a result prices for catches have risen.

every seat in the theater was occupied.

Spring weather helped the handling of the extraordinary traffic incident to arrival and departure of the opera crowd. West bound traffic was barred from F street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets and no left-hand turns were permitted. Traffic signal lights at nearby street corners were operated by hand instead of the usual automatic timing device.

The performance was brought to a close at 4:55, and 20 minutes later there were only one or two persons awaiting their machines.

Twenty policemen, under Lieut. Frank A. Varney, acting captain of the First Police Precinct, were assigned to regulate traffic. They, too, had learned a lesson Tuesday night and kept traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian, moving briskly.

Formal Attire Not General.

There were opera hats, cutaway coats and striped trousers on the persons of various dignitaries at the performance yesterday, but for the most part male attire was not formal, while the clothing of the women was of spring fashions.

Lily Pons received a reminder of her homeland when August Meseritz, husband of the prima donna, discovered in the audience a daughter of Alberti, teacher of Miss Pons.

The almost capacity audience which attended the opera yesterday seemed to make certain that this visit of the Metropolitan Opera to Washington will set a financial record. Financial sponsors of the appearance of the Metropolitan this year probably will not be called on to make up losses, and for the first time the Washington "season" of the Metropolitan will show a profit.

Scattered throughout the audience, were many children, who seemed to be enjoying the opera as much as the grownups. Rarely has there been noted at previous entertainments of classic character so great a number of young children "in tow" of parents or friends.

There were a few spring tailleurs in grey or soft shades of brown with soft fur, or ensembles of printed silks combined with solid tone blue or black, but the paucity of smart spring attire yesterday was notable, which leads to the deduction that trunks have yet to be unpacked by patrons who hurried home from the South for the opera.

Baltimoreans Attend Performance.

Many visitors from Baltimore added a gay note to the scenes in the foyer between acts. Patrons were universally in gay spirits, and chatted in groups before the rising of the curtain.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose had with her in her box, Mme. Veverka, wife of the Minister of Czechoslovakia; Mme. Malbran, wife of the Ambassador of Argentina; Mme. Ishmail Bey, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of Egypt; Mrs. Charles S. Deneen and her guest, Mrs. Rose Anthon.

Mrs. George Mesta had in her box, the Chilean Ambassador and Senora de Davila; Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War; Col. Matthew DeLaney and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr.

Others who occupied boxes yesterday afternoon were Mrs. Edward C. Walker, the Misses Sedgeley, who had among their guests Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Barney, of Connecticut; Mrs. C. C. Williams, Mrs. Demarest Lloyd and Miss Alice Clapp.

Mrs. James Dudley Morgan had with her in her box Mrs. J. Harry Covington, Mrs. Leroy Tuttle, Mrs. Fitzmaurice Day, wife of the Military Attache of the British Embassy, and Mrs. Carroll Morgan.

The Countess Alice Szechenyi, smart in a blue printed frock with a dark blue hat, occupied the box of the Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi, with her fiance, Count Bela Hadik, and her two small sisters, Countess Sylvia and Countess Nandine. The two little girls with their fair curls and pink dresses seemed to enjoy the charming performance. Mrs. Harry Norment, wearing a suit of turquoise blue woolen material trimmed with gray fox and a hat to match, was accompanied by Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the late Chief Justice.

The German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz were again among the audience as were the Minister of Greece, Mr. Charalambos Simopoulos; the Counselor of the Swedish Legation and Baroness Back-Friis and Mlle. Ellis Bostrom, daughter of the Swedish Minister and Mme. Bostrom.

Mrs. Bacon Entertains Party.

Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon, entertained a small group at the performance, and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, wearing a smart ensemble of yellow and beige with a small brown hat also was present.

Former Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, always a patron of music, came alone, and seated near him were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Jones and their guest, Miss Josephine Farrell, of New York. Mrs. Wilton Lambert was accompanied by Mrs. William Bailey LaMar, who is in Washington from her home in Atlanta, Ga., for the opera season.

Others in the audience were Miss Anne Randolph, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and her small daughter; Mrs. Adolph A. Hoehling, Mrs. John R. Ash, Mrs. David St. P. Gaillard, and Mrs. James Carroll Fraser. In the foyer during the entre acte were young diplomats chatting over the preceding act. Among them were the Secretary of the Hungarian Legation, Baron Paul Schell; the Assistant Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy, and Countess di Gropelli, the two Commercial Secretaries of the British Embassy, Mr. Arthur Pack and Mr. Leander McCormick-Goodhart with their wives, and the second Secretary of the British Embassy, Mr. C. J. W. Torr.

Others in attendance were the Minister of Albania, Mr. Faik Konitza; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lane and Miss Dorothea Lane, the latter wearing an ensemble of navy blue with touches of red and white; Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Hoover, Mrs. William D. Thomas, in an afternoon frock of black and white print with a small black helmet; Mrs. Frances Rust, Mr. Ralph Hill, Mrs. Franklin Ellis with her small son; Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, and her three small boys who occupied the front row, and were thrilled by the heroic rescue of "Mignon" from the fire.

Mrs. Marshall Field Present.

Mrs. Marshall Field sat directly in front of Mrs. Taft, and they exchanged greetings. The Minister of Guatemala and Senora de Recinos were there, the latter wearing a gown of deep maroon crepe with a small black hat. Miss Laura Tuckerman, in a beige and brown ensemble, was among the many of the younger set who attended, as were Miss Elizabeth Roberts, daughter of Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, and Miss Sallie Hews Phillips.

Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggamann, Mrs. Rose Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. Thilman Hendricks, Mrs. Ernest Van Fossan, Col. and Mrs. Edward Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Henry, Miss Virgiina Hunt, the counselor of the Czechoslovakian Legation and Mme. Skalicky also were among those attending.

WIFE'S DIVORCE SUIT SURPRISES TY COBB

regarding the cruelty charge, and Mrs. Cobb declined to amplify them. Cobb is in California.

The Cobbs were married here August 6, 1908. Mrs. Cobb is a native of Richmond County, and they have made their home in Augusta since their marriage.

Ty Cobb played constantly in the major leagues for 24 years—longer than any other man, pitchers excepted. He was born in Banks County, Ga., in 1886.

Played With Detroit 22 Years.

In 1905 he went to the Detroit Tigers. He played continuously with Detroit, for the last several years as manager, until the season of 1927, when he went to the Philadelphia Athletics, winding up his major league career with the Athletics in 1928.

Since that season Cobb has been out of baseball. On several occasions he has been mentioned as a prospective buyer of major and minor league clubs, but a year ago he said he was satisfied to leave baseball alone.

He said his retirement had enabled him, for the first time since his marriage, to spend his time with his family.

Cobb has been closely connected with the sports activity of Augusta for the past year as chairman of the chamber of commerce committee on sports. He took part in promotion of the Southeastern open golf tournament at Augusta last month, and has been a prominent figure in Georgia horse and dog shows.

Cobb "Surprised and Shocked."

Monterey, Calif., April 15 (A.P.).—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, famous baseball player, cut short his California trip and made arrangements to leave for Augusta, Ga., tonight on receiving word a suit for divorce had been filed there against him.

"Naturally I am surprised and shocked," he said.

"I do not know what to say except that I have always loved my wife, my children, and my home. I am sorry such apparently hasty action as this was taken in my absence from home and without having first consulted me in the matter.

"A family is an institution where the children's interest should come first, and even now I say that Mrs. Cobb and I should think of our children and not bring them into any court procedure.

"My present trip to California was to attend the opening of the San Francisco Baseball Club's new Seal Stadium and to seek a home, with a view toward living in this State."

With Cobb is Harry Lea, Richmond tobacco man. They had been the guests here of George Putnam, of the San Francisco Seals.

$30,000 Suits Filed In Fire Fatal to 3

Defendant Is President of Common Council of Winchester, Va.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 15.—Suits claiming $30,000 damages were filed today in Corporation Court against Fred L. Glaize, sr., by Robert S. Stewart, administrator of the estates of Roy A. Stewart and wife, Lillian Stewart, and their son, Voyne Stewart, who died from suffocation in a fire which destroyed part of an apple-packing plant owned by Mr. Glaize.

The Stewarts, who came from West Virginia, occupied an apartment on the second oor. Mrs. Stewart and son were dead when found, and Stewart died several hours later in a hospital.

It was indicated that a demurrer to the declaration probably will be filed, and the case set for trial at the May term of court. Mr. Glaize is president of the Winchester Common Council and prominently identified with lumber, fruit growing and banking interests.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

RADIO TO TELL ZAIN AD WINNER TONIGHT

Hear Announcement of $100 Prize at Stations WRC and WMAL.

Tune in your radios on WRC at 6:15 tonight.

First announcement of the winner of the $100 cash prize for the best ad written in the first week of the Post-Zain Amateur Ad Writing Contest will be made at that time.

The Post has arranged to have this preliminary announcement made during the Washington Gas Light Co.'s radio broadcast, between 6:15 and 6:45 o'clock. Washington Gas Light Co. is one of the 35 firms cooperating with The Post in the contest.

An hour later over Station WMAL, the Associated Bakery Union will also announce the $100 cash prize winner. One of the Zain Contest judges will make the announcement.

And tomorrow morning the announcement will be repeated in the columns of The Post, with the 175 other winners of the five merchandise awards being made by each of our 35 advertisers. Three disinterested advertising experts will meet at The Post today to go over all of the ads submitted in the contest and select those which in their opinion are the best.

Contest Enters Second Week.

And today everybody can get off to a fresh start, as the contest enters its second lap.

If you proved one of the successful ones last week, it will not bar you from winning other prizes in the second period, or in any of the ensuing weeks. And you will still be eligible for that $1,000 grand prize at the close of the seven weeks.

Yesterday representatives of each of the 35 business firms cooperating in the contest met at the Carlton Hotel for their first glimpse of the first week's ads. They were greatly pleased with the returns, and commented especially on the high standard of intelligence reflected in those received to date.

Get Your Ads In Earlier.

In scanning the rules you will notice a slight change has been made in provisions covering the second week. We are going to move the deadline up from midnight Wednesday to noon of Wednesday to expedite judging. So remember to get your ads in a few hours earlier next week.

The Post-Zain campaign advertises advertising. Every amateur ad you submit is a message directed to the reading public with the intent of attracting attention, arousing interest, convincing the reader of the quality of a product, impelling him to buy. The Post is willing to pay $10,000 in cash and merchandise in this seven weeks' contest with that objective in view.

Whatever you are thinking about the products of the 35 cooperating advertisers is of interest. And because The Post believes that the viewpoint of the public is important, you will win an award, providing, of course, your idea is considered to be the best by the judges.

Earle Is Easy to Write About.

In writing your ad—it can be a slogan, a letter, a poem or a regular ad—use a piece of paper about twice the size of a postcard. Use a separate sheet of paper for each ad, and in the upper left-hand corner jot down the name of the firm you are advertising.

Try writing some ads about the Earle Theater. Affiliated as it is with Warner Brothers, one of the greatest theatrical enterprises in the world, the Earle combines the best in vaudeville acts with feature photoplays on a schedule that runs continuously, afternoon and night.

When you think of shoes you probably think of Edmonston & Co., at 612 Thirteenth street northwest, and when you think of writing an amateur ad, here you will find a likely subject. You can always get an excellent fit and courteous service at Edmonston's.

Here Are Other Suggestions.

Rizik Bros., at 1213 F street northwest, always handles the smartest in women's wear. Your ads might make some reference to the style and chic appearance of almost anything purchased at this exclusive store.

And it would NOT be well to forget the "matchless service" offered by Potomac Electric Power Co. in writing your ads. Here is a firm that every home in the city equipped with electricity knows something about.

Steuart Motor Co. at Sixth and K streets northwest, is Washington's largest Ford dealer, and what more promising advertising subject is there than this most widely publicized automobile in the world. "Steuart Service" is known to Ford operators the city over.

RULES FOR CONTEST

1—$10,000 in prizes to be distributed over seven weeks of amateur ad-writing.

2—$1,000 in cash will be given for the best ad written by an amateur during the entire Post-Zain ad-writing campaign. To compete for this prize it will be necessary for contestants to write at least one ad about each of the 35 firms participating in the ad contest.

3—Grand weekly award of $100 will be given each week for the best ads during six periods of the ad-writing contest.

4—Five merchandise prizes for each of the 35 concerns will be given weekly during six weeks of the campaign.

5—Ads for the second week of the Post-Zain ad-writing campaign must be received prior to noon, Wednesday, April 22.

6—Ads submitted in competition for the grand award of $1,000 must be received prior to midnight, May 27.

7—Any one anywhere may compete for the prizes with the exception of newspaper employes and members of the advertising profession.

8—There are no obligations. No coupons to clip, no entrance fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy. One person may submit as many ads as he chooses. The more ads you write, the more prizes you may receive. The Post-Zain ad-writing contest may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about one or all concerns.

9—Write your ideas on one side only of a sheet of paper at least twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are writing in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.

10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie, awards will be made to both.

11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.

Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one or more prizes.

If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.

If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads.

Norfolk Will Get Engineering Class

Cooperative Arrangement Completed by V. P. I. and W. & M.

Blacksburg, Va., April 15 (A.P.).—Training in engineering subjects will be offered in Norfolk beginning next September through a cooperative arrangement just completed between Virginia Polytechnic Institute and the College of William and Mary, Col. Earle B. Norris, dean of the engineering school, explained here today.

A somewhat similar cooperative arrangement between V. P. I. and the Virginia Mechanics Institute, at Richmond, was begun last September. Under the plan a student may take the work usually given during the first and second years of a regular engineering course as given at the college here. Prof. H. S. Grenoble, who is in charge of "V. P. I. in Richmond," reported that 30 students are registered there this year.

Trade Body Elects Directors Tonight

Members, at Annual Meeting, Will Hear Speeches by Two Governors.

Gov. John G. Pollard of Virginia, Gov. William G. Conley of West Virginia, and David C. Winebrenner, secretary of state for Maryland, will be principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Washington Board of Trade at a dinner at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Willard Hotel.

Members will elect ten directors from a list of 13 prominent Washingtonians nominated. They include Robert V. Fleming, Lloyd B. Wilson, E. C. Graham, John Saul, Joseph A. Burkhart, E. J. Murphy, George B. Farquhar, Gerome Barnard, Charles W. Morris, John H. Hanna, Stephen E. Kramer, David Lea and Radford Moses.

Representatives of the three neighboring States as principal speakers will talk on the program, directed by the Greater National Capital Committee, for advertising points of historic interest in this region.

Envoy Lafronte Makes Pan-American Address

Students of Spanish at Georgetown University Foreign Service School yesterday heard an address by Dr. Homero Viteri Lafronte, Minister of Ecuador, as part of the observance in connection with Pan-American Day, which was celebrated throughout the Americas Tuesday.

Dr. Lafronte, who is a former professor of law at the University of Quito, defined the idea of Pan-Americanism for the students and said that its value was not merely political and economical, but largely cultural and social. He pointed out that citizens of the various republics consider America as a unit rather than as composed entirely of foreign states.

PUBLIC TO WITNESS CHOICE OF ENVOYS

Ambassadors Also Expected at Flag Ceremonies on Saturday.

With the exception of a few seats reserved for specially invited guests, the auditorium at Central High School will be open to the public Saturday morning to witness the selection of two "Envoys of Friendship" for the good-will trip to Europe and patriotic pilgrimage to historic points in the United States which marks the finals of the contest which has been conducted in the public and private high schools of Washington by the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post.

Six boys and six girls, picked from 60 high school boys and girls who qualified for the preliminary test, will face the jury of selection headed by William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, and from this group one boy and one girl will be selected to represent the schools of Washington on this memorable trip. Because of the patriotic nature of the trip to be taken by this group of American children, and because they will go to both England and France, it is expected that both the British and French Ambassadors will be present for the ceremonies, as well as other members of the Diplomatic Corps. High Government officials, high ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and many persons prominent socially in Washington will be among the spectators.

Essay Winners to Take Part.

In addition to the six boys and girls who will take part in the finals the other 48 who qualified for the preliminary test will also be present to have a part in the ceremonies and to receive the "Old Glory" medal of the United States Flag Association. Ten of the remaining 12 will receive the Patriotic Service Medal, the second highest decoration of the United States Flag Association, while the two winners will be awarded the Cross of Honor, the highest honor of the flag association and the same medal that was conferred upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his return here from his memorable flight to Paris.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, prominent in social and philanthropic circles, is patroness for the boy and girl who will win the finals Saturday morning. Mrs. Loose asked The Washington Post to cooperate with the United States Flag Association in the selection of this boy and girl, stating that she did not desire to have the burden of selection placed upon her. She has approved the contest method of finding the boy and girl best qualified for this trip and will be present Saturday to see the final choice made.

Patriotic Service Done.

School authorities of both public and private schools of Washington have given wonderful cooperation in conducting the contest, feeling that they were performing a patriotic service in helping to inculcate into the hearts of the future rulers of this country a feeling of rational patriotism and goodwill toward other countries that, it is hoped, will eventually make the conference table, rather than the battlefield, the place of settlement of disputes arising among nations.

The boy and girl selected Saturday will be members of a party of 63 boys and girls who will form a "living flag" to convey a message of goodwill to the children of England and France. One boy represents the flagstaff; one the field of blue; thirteen the stripes of the flag and the remaining 48 the stars. They will be received by high officials in both countries, either the king or the Prince of Wales receiving them in London and the President of France greeting them at Paris.

ROWBOTTOM IS GIVEN YEAR IN LEAVENWORTH

second was that he actually did receive the money.

The third was that he indirectly received $800 for procuring "and aiding to procure" the postmastership at Dale for S. Grant Johnson. The fourth was that he unlawfully received the $800 from Otto A. Weilbrenner for procuring the Dale position.

Before the case was given to the jury one count of the indictment against Rowbottom was dismissed on the motion of District Attorney George R. Jeffrey. This count charged that he had conspired with Weilbrenner and William E. Davisson, former Petersburg postmaster, in the matter of accepting bribes.

The jury voted acquittal on four other counts of the indictment.

Overton Is Indicated Winner of House Seat

Alexandria, La., April 15 (A.P.).—Complete returns gathered today from all but two parishes in yesterday's Democratic primary in the Eighth Congressional District of Louisiana gave John H. Overton a lead of approximately 7,000 votes over Dr. Claybrook Cottingham in their race for the nomination as successor to the late Representative James B. Aswell.

Thus far, 14,671 votes have been counted for Overton, Alexandria attorney and friend of Governor Huey P. Long, compared with 7,063 for Dr. Cottingham, president of Louisiana Baptist College.

Reward Out for Thief, But He Must Be Dead

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—One thousand dollars for a body! The sign reads that way. It was posted outside the offices of the Waterside Concrete Works, and was signed by Douglas Thorpe, owner of the plant. "One thousand dollars reward will be paid by the undersigned," said the sign, "for the dead body of any person stealing from this plant or breaking into the premises and damaging the machinery or equipment. Nothing will be paid for the arrest of living persons."

Britten for Speaker Urged by Colleagues

Springfield, Ill., April 15 (A.P.).—A movement was launched by Illinois representatives yesterday to line up congressional delegations from Middle Western States to elect Representative Fred A. Britten, of Chicago, speaker of the National House of Representatives to succeed the late Nicholas Longworth.

Engineers Welcomed By Gov. Pollard

Norfolk, Va., April 15 (A.P.).—Delegates to the annual spring meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers were welcomed to Virginia today by Gov. John Garland Pollard. The response was made by Francis Lee Stuart, of New York, president of the society.

Maj. Gen. Lyttle Brown, chief of engineers, Washington, spoke on Mississippi River control work and channel maintenance. Lieut. Col. E. J. Dent, of the Engineers Corps, Fort Humphreys, discussed coast erosion.

dent," she replied, adding that the President had been very cordial.

No doubt about the President's stand was expressed by the women drys who met here Saturday and Monday. So sure were some of them that President Hoover would take a dry stand that many Democratic women already were making plans to bolt their party to support him, just as they did in 1928.

Convention Closed Yesterday.

The women wets, who brought their second annual convention to a close yesterday, left the city highly pleased with what had been accomplished. Particularly were they pleased by the almost meteoric growth of the organization.

About two and a half years ago, Mrs. Sabin, then the Republican national committeewoman for New York, resigned that post because her prohibition views clashed with those of her party. To her surprise, so she has said, she soon was swamped with letters from prominent women who felt as she did about prohibition.

Eventually Mrs. Sabin and some of the women who had written to her got together and formed the nucleus of what was to become the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. The first national convention was held last year in Cleveland, Ohio. Since then the organization has grown until it has a membership of 300,000.

Membership Rivals W. C. T. U.

Of the 32 State chairwomen who made reports to yesterday's convention, 7 said that their organizations had piled up greater memberships than the Woman's Christian Temperance Unions in their localities. These 7 chairwomen represented New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri and the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Belle Gurnee, chairman for the District, said that her membership is now 2,051. This, she said, "puts us 100 members ahead of the W. C. T. U. in the District."

Mrs. N. M. Pollock, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union here, said last night that no comparison could be made between the two organizations. Whereas Mrs. Gurnee's organization merely asks a woman to sign a card calling for a change in prohibition, Mrs. Pollock said, the W. C. T. U. exacts a total abstinence pledge and $1 a year from each member. Furthermore, Mrs. Pollock said, the W. C. T. U. is not trying to engage in a membership race.

Apollo Club Formed For Refined Music

Organization of the Apollo Club of Washington, a new musical unit limited to 100 selected male voices, "for the cultivation of a refined taste in music," was announced yesterday by Lieut. Charles Riemer, conductor.

Membership will include active members, nonsinging members, honorary members, life members, sustaining members and associate members, Lieut. Riemer announced. In addition, the organizers and directors of the organization are Romeo Guaraldi and Dr. Seba L. Christie, vocal instructors; Edwin Steffe, Henry Nestor, Adolph Turner, voice committee; Charles B. Moses, business director; S. W. Swygart, librarian; Earl Meatwolfe, Joseph King, William Bell, Aaron Kaplan, Joseph Bernne, membership committee; Carleton Campbell, electrical effects.

TO PROTECT CONSUMERS.

Attorney General Mitchell wants it distinctly understood that his department has no authority to declare a moratorium on the antitrust laws when business is not prosperous. Some industries seem to think that the Department of Justice should cooperate in restraining competition during hard times. But Mr. Mitchell let it be known in his address at the University of Minnesota that he has no intention of doing so.

His address is particularly interesting because of the efforts of the oil industry to immunize itself from the antitrust laws. It is argued that the waste incident to overproduction and lack of control over oil fields is sufficient to justify a combination in restraint of trade. But Mr. Mitchell points out that it is his duty to prosecute all combinations engaged in restraining interstate and foreign commerce in violation of the law.

The antitrust laws were enacted to protect consumers against exorbitant prices, to prevent the oppression of small business men and insure to the average individual freedom to engage in trade. It is strange that the proposed combination for control of the oil industry is urged on the pretext of protecting the small and independent producers. Is it not possible that the independent operators are unwittingly walking into the lion's mouth?

The Federal Oil Conservation Board, composed of four Cabinet members not including Attorney General Mitchell, has given its approval to a setup under which a committee representing the oil-producing States would exercise rigid control over petroleum output. The States and the Government would cooperate in setting aside the antitrust laws insofar as the oil industry is concerned. But price control would be left in the hands of the oil interests instead of in a body representing the public.

It is apparent that the Attorney General does not agree with this plan. He says:

> Combinations and agreements covering an entire industry and intended to restrict production have the direct purpose, and will have the ultimate effect of raising prices, and if the combinations are to be permitted the public must have something to say about the prices to be charged, and I have never been able to discover, and no one has been able to suggest, how combinations of this kind may be permitted without forcing the Government into the business of fixing prices or regulating, or at least in some way determining, the prices to be charged the public.

This is substantially the same viewpoint as expressed by Senator Borah and others. Mr. Mitchell's opinion ought to be given serious consideration by the Oil Conservation Board. If they ignore it, the matter will not fail to attract attention in Congress when the proposed compact giving the oil States unified control of production with no safeguards as to price comes up for ratification.

PAYMENTS TO VETERANS.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, has issued a timely warning to former service men. Expenditures of the Government for relief of veterans are reaching the point where they may become intolerable to the taxpayers and cause a reaction of public sentiment against some forms of veterans' relief. In recent years funds have flowed into the Treasury without burdening taxpayers to any great extent. But Uncle Sam is now "hard up." With the threat of increased taxation impending the public will scrutinize every expenditure authorized by Congress during the next few years, and needless appropriations will meet with widespread protest and resentment.

This warning from Gen. Hines may have been called forth by the announcement from Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, that an extensive program for veterans' relief will be presented to the next Congress. Gen. Hines points out that approximately $5,000,000,000 has been spent on veterans of the World War, and that at the present rate disbursements for that purpose will reach $21,850,000,000 by 1950. The effect of this unprecedented generosity will be to double the cost of the war to American taxpayers.

No complaint will be made about taking care of those disabled by the war. Widows and orphans of men who gave their lives in defense of the country must be helped over the rough places. But there is no justification for new demands from able-bodied veterans who are as capable of looking out for themselves as other citizens.

Gen. Hines calls for a manifestation of peace-time patriotism from the men whose service brought them honor in war. "If we teach our young men that service to our country means that the Government thereafter must support them, or that they must be paid for it, then we have sown the seeds of destruction." He says: "If we do not meet the needs of need," he said, "then we are undermining the very foundation of good citizenship." It is time for veterans' organizations to realign their demands more in keeping with the ideals expressed in their constitutions. Defense of country is a common duty of all citizens. No monetary value can be placed upon such service. Of course, the Government must care for those who meet with misfortune because of this service. But any attempt to burden the country with taxes to provide inordinate rewards for military service is the reverse of patriotism.

SOUTH AMERICAN DEBTS.

Now that sincere tributes have been paid to the cause of Pan-American confraternity, it would be well for all the nations concerned to look economic facts in the face. It may be granted that all of them desire domestic tranquillity and continental peace, together with cordial cooperation with the United States in all that conduces to commercial and cultural relations. There is no lack of mutual good will among the American nations.

Now the question arises, How are national credits to be maintained in the face of adverse economic conditions? Two South American countries have failed to meet payments upon their national debts. This is a fact that gives rise to great apprehensions, as it directs attention to the fiscal situation of all of the South American countries, disturbed as they have been by political unrest.

About $1,200,000,000 of American money is invested in the securities of South American local and national governments, to say nothing of immense American investments in private enterprises. The financial interest of Americans in South America is now so large that it must be taken into account as a factor in any situation that may arise. Americans can not afford to lose their investments in South American securities, and South American countries can not afford to destroy their credit in the United States.

It has been said that some of the loans to South American countries were unwise; that the governments were literally coerced into borrowing more than they needed, although that is difficult to believe. But whether wise or unwise, the loans exist, and American bondholders expect to be paid. Naturally, there will be no market for the bonds of South American countries which fail to meet installments upon their debts. Their credit has disappeared. The credit of neighboring countries is impaired when one of them defaults.

Whatever the political controversies may be in any South American state, the responsibility for maintaining the national credit rests upon all politicians and government officials. They have nothing to gain by political victories if they fail or refuse to assume their country's foreign obligations. The moment they falter in this respect they dry up the sources of credit and make it impossible to refund their bond issues. With Americans ready to cooperate for the welfare of South American countries, it is certainly incumbent upon the public leaders of those countries to take scrupulous care to meet debt payments in order to make it possible for Americans to continue to cooperate.

Disorders caused by changes in cabinets may excuse temporary postponements of debt payments, but no government that hopes to become stable can afford to risk its credit by failing to meet its obligations. Budgets must be balanced if government is to endure. Pan-Americanism is a hollow mockery if it is to be merely an exchange of high-flown compliments between governments that are in default.

COMMUNISM IN SPAIN.

Now that the so-called republicans of Spain have gained the upper hand over King Alfonso the question arises as to their ability to establish a single stable government. The country is permeated with socialism, which mixes as poorly with republicanism as it does with monarchism. Catalonia, especially, is socialistic, with a leaning toward communism. Already that region is declaring a separate republic. Barcelona, the hotbed of communism, is likely to become the center of disorders which may upset the plans of the republicans to establish a government at Madrid.

The tasks that confront the organizers of the proposed Spanish republic are manifold and perplexing. It is easier to break down a government than to set up a successful new one. The monarchy failed because of the inability of Spaniards to work together in honest government. Graft honeycombed the operations in Morocco and drained the treasury. The country might have recovered slowly from the terrible losses resulting from graft and mismanagement, but the world depression coming at the point of lowest vitality practically ruined the government. Spain's finances are in wretched condition, with no improvement in sight. How is the country to restore the value of its currency? Certainly it will not be better off by entering upon schemes of socialism, in which everybody will expect to profit without working.

The usual outcome of conditions such as those now developing is the seizure of power by a strong man. The republican socialists collectively show no signs of statecraft, or even of cohesiveness. A season of turmoil seems to be coming, in which the condition of the people will go from bad to worse. The remedy could be found in a Mussolini, if Spain can produce one; but there is danger that communism will drive the socialists into a regime of Leninism before a dictator appears.

EMPLOYING LEISURE TIME.

Even back in the heyday of prosperity men of advanced ideas were giving thought to the question of how man would and should occupy his increasing hours of leisure. They visualized a time when the advancement of science and the perfection of machines would so increase production that three hours' work a day would be sufficient to supply all material needs. And yet it must appear the height of irony to many to be talking of diversion for idle hours when what they wish most is an opportunity to spend some of their superabundant idle hours in profitable work.

The present condition of industry calls forth endless discussion. Dr. George Barton Cutten, of Colgate University, says: "If we must curtail the use of the machine or the hours of labor, and there is no chance of curtailing the machine." With more efficient use of machinery and more equitable distribution of profits, Dr. Cutten believes that "our present state of development would warrant a six if not a four hour day."

The improper use of leisure time, however, Dr. Cutten warns, has been blamed for the decay of former civilizations. "Leisure," he says, "is either to make us a greater Nation or be our downfall; our economic success, as it always does, has presented us with a crisis, perhaps our greatest crisis. We are apt to think of success only as a blessing rather than as a responsibility, and the decay which results from a misuse of this success is so insidious because it is pleasant to experience. Intoxicated with success is a correct figure of speech both for an individual and a nation—but there is always the morning after."

The National Recreation Association, organized in the White House 25 years ago under the sponsorship of Theodore Roosevelt, held its annual session in Washington this week and was addressed by President Hoover. The organization aims to develop interest in the employment of leisure hours in constructive and cultural pursuits as well as beneficial physical exercise. President Hoover, in commending the work of the association, said:

> The whole recreational movement is one not only vital to public health, but it is vital to public welfare. The growing congestion of the cities presents constantly new problems of physical and moral and mental training of children, on one hand, and the growing leisure by shortened hours of labor presents increasing problems in provision of opportunity for proper use of increasing leisure for adults. Every progress in constructive recreation for leisure time not only improves health, but also morals.

Work has kept many a man from lapsing into vicious habits. Leisure, unless prevented from running into laziness and idleness, is more apt to be a curse than a blessing.

Experts for the Department of Agriculture have invented a new machine to test tenderness. Unfortunately it can be used only on foods.

THE SHAKESPEARE LIBRARY

From the Boston Transcript.

On historic Capitol Hill, just behind the Library of Congress, a white marble building is nearing completion. The home of the Folger Shakespeare Library, it will soon be the repository of what is generally regarded as the greatest collection of Shakespeareana in the world. Unsurpassed by any other library in the number of unique items it contains, the collection of books, manuscripts and relics has now come to Washington. A noble monument to the memory of the greatest of English poets, it will serve as well as a lasting monument to Henry C. Folger, who, with painstaking care and discriminating judgment, built up the collection during an active business career, as one of the heads of a giant corporation.

Born in New York City, on June 18, 1857, of New England ancestry, Henry C. Folger went to Amherst College, graduating in 1879. The writings of Emerson had a great influence on him. While he was at Amherst he read Emerson's "Remarks at the Celebration of the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of Shakespeare." This made a deep impression on him and he early came to love Shakespeare as the prince of all poets. He left Amherst with a love of good literature and intellectual tastes. Business had first claim upon him; literature was reserved for his moments of leisure. His career in the world of business is well known; a career in which he won success through hard work, clear thinking and perseverance. In June, 1908, he was elected to the board of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, and soon afterward was made a member of the executive committee. In February of the following year he was also elected a director of the Standard Co. of New York. On its dissolution in 1911 he became president of the New York company, continuing in that office until May, 1923, when he was chosen chairman of the board, remaining as chief executive officer until his retirement five years later. He died on June 11, 1930, and during the few years after his retirement he had been devoting himself entirely to the construction of the Shakespeare Library Building.

Shakespeare was the single hobby that held his thoughts and attention in the small margin of time left him by the exacting cares of business. The beginning of his Shakespeare Library was the copy of the Halliwell-Phillips photographic facsimile of the first folio, which he bought for $1.25, bringing it home with the words, "Here you may see Shakespeare's plays as they were actually given to the world." On examining the text he found many small but none the less striking differences between the first folio version and an "edited" copy of the dramatist's works. So textual research beckoned to him, and his career with all the burning enthusiasm of the collector had begun. Before he had finished he had placed in his library every known variation of each of the four Shakespeare folios, with the exception of one variant of the second folio, the only copy of which is owned by the New York Public Library.

Letters sent to his class secretary at five-year intervals give us a clew to the growth of his library. In 1899 he modestly describes his activities thus: "My annals record little that is of even passing interest. A business position with the Standard Oil Co. has called for my best efforts to meet added responsibilities; while for diversion, the gathering of a modest library—for the most part as yet unread—has helped to keep me interested in matters literary."

Five years later he uncovers for the first time his special interest in Shakespeare: "The days have been given to business. The nights have been employed in bringing together a library of Shakespeareana. In the gathering of books I have been signally fortunate during these years, quite beyond my greatest hopes, and have made a collection of material illustrating Shakespeare which I believe will meet its mission."

The Endless Task.

POST HASTE.

Alas, Alfonso! How have the mighty fallen!

In a day the king lost his crown in Spain.

In a night he lost his glamour for all the world.

The gesture of renunciation to save bloodshed is forgotten in his flight to save himself.

Alfonso, the good sportsman, abandons his queen and family in a wild ride to reach safety in foreign lands.

Was any such panic of departure necessary? There had been no serious threats against his person.

"Death to the king!" in excited Spanish is no more than a request for a ruler's resignation.

What a figure Alfonso would have remained if, instead of precipitate flight he had boldly gone before the victorious Republicans and said:

"The elections indicate that Spain no longer wants a king. I bow to that decree. I abdicate the throne. I relinquish my rule to the leaders of the Republican movement. My only wish is that the change may be made peacefully, and to this end I shall leave my beloved Spain."

That would have been a kingly parting with his people from the last of a line of monarchs who have ruled for nearly a thousand years.

Would Alfonso have been allowed to depart in peace?

Would the populace, excited with new-won power, have appreciated such magnanimity? Or would they have turned to rend him?

What matters the result? In either case Alfonso XIII would have been a hero to Spain and all the world for all time.

It is reported that Alfonso may go into the automobile business. His first step was to set a world record as a hit-and-run driver.

Spain will now arrange her celebrations for April 13 instead of Alfonso XIII.

They weren't even after you, Alfonso, and you are going to have a hard time explaining to your English cricketer cousin why it was necessary to cut and run for personal safety.

If the king had remained in Madrid to read his farewell address today the world would have been much more interested in what he had to say.

Madrid's next problem may be to convince Barcelona and various provinces that Spain does not need a dozen republics.

President Zamora, after his ultimatum interview with Alfonso, said: "I am content." Why not, with the hand he held, and the other fellow vulnerable?

If Alfonso hurries, he may reach London today in time to see how an English king can watch a political battle from a reserved seat that is not endangered, whatever the decision. P. H.

THE COMPLETE TAX LIST

The old saying that "Nothing is sure but death and taxes," takes on added meaning in Denmark, where the assessors levy tithes on business, pleasure and life itself. A recently compiled list of the various taxes made on the Danes includes, says the Wall Street Journal, state, county, capital, income, house, ground, church, water, dog, business, radio, beer, alcohol, automobile, document, benzine, snow, inheritance, road, chimney, calendar, movie and legitimate theaters, dancing, amusement and bachelors.

The Sparrow Thinks Flying Proof of Greatness, But Why Should the Lion Agree?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY people are needlessly unhappy because they fall into a trap set by the vanity of others.

The world is full of people much like the little girl whose chief pleasure in giving a party was the snubbing of the uninvited.

These people enjoy feeling superior. In order to be superior you must have inferiors, of course, and it isn't enough merely to assert your superiority. The inferiors must acknowledge their inferiority and in some way reveal their envy.

Since the role of inferior is an unpleasant one, not willingly adopted by anybody, those who wish to be acknowledged as superiors must set up some standard of excellence that will prove their superiority.

This is usually a very simple matter. They merely select some detail in which they differ from others—the fact of living on a certain street, the possession of Dutch ancestors, the ability to talk in the sign language, or something like that—and then they say to the world: "Because we are like this we are superior."

You can't blame them for that, for self-respect is essential to happiness and each of us thinks his own peculiarity, whether good looks, piety or muscle, is the one dependable proof of excellence.

But a mere declaration of superiority isn't enough. Being exclusive is no fun unless people know you are exclusive. And keeping inferiors out is no fun unless they wish to get in.

When those who wish to be superior have set up the standard that proves their case, they are helpless without cooperation. They have arrived nowhere at all unless the world accepts their standard.

Fortunately, for them, the world is simple enough to accept it without argument. "These people live on Hooligan street and I don't," says the world, "so they must be superior. I must, at any cost, have a lot on Hooligan."

The pathetic part of it is that the world doesn't care about living on Hooligan street, or talking in the sign language, or having Dutch ancestors. It had much rather follow its natural taste; but the sight of a closed gate has filled it with a yearning to get on the other side and so it falls into a trap and plays the role of unhappy inferior.

It isn't a dignified role. In fact, it is the role of the simple who play a game in which the cards are stacked by the other fellow.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Afraid There's a Catch in It.

Atlanta Constitution.

Symptoms are appearing that Republican party strategists are keeping close tab upon the mutations that may happen in both parties between now and the assembling of Congress in December next.

It is by no means beyond possibility that those shrewd political managers, finding that they will have no safe chance to back up the administration or put over any party policy in the next Congress, will lay hold upon the expedient of throwing one house of that body, at least, into the control of the Democrats.

To block all party legislation, either Republican or Democratic, prior to the presidential campaign of next year, will avoid many responsibilities for Hoover and for the party. A stalemate in Congress will be worked as an alibi for all that can be made out of it. It might well prove to be the one salient argument of the Republicans for the renomination and reelection of Hoover. They can claim that he "hasn't had a fair chance," because his administration was cut in twain and aborted by a freak Democratic congressional condition.

Not Easy to Repeal.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Various theories are being presented to account for Gov. Emmerson's veto of the bill to repeal the Illinois prohibition laws. For Illinois, as shown by various referendums as well as the election last November, is one of the preponderantly wet States. Experience shows that it is much easier to put prohibition laws on the statute books than to take them off.

And Bray Softly.

Atlanta Constitution.

Now is a rare time for the Democrats to watch their step and carry a big stick. They may sound Roosevelt'an, but it is the right dope.

At Large.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Aren't there enough people prowling around one way and another without having 18 Missouri congressmen at large?

The Next Congress.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Already livelier than is usually the case, interest in reorganization and the probable program of the next Congress has been increased by the death of Speaker Longworth.

The Democratic and Republican progressive coalition in the Senate safely holds the fort. The actual membership of the House at the moment is 216 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. There are three vacancies, caused by the deaths of Representatives Cooper, of Wisconsin, Aswell, of Louisiana, and Longworth, of Ohio. The Republican progressives will carry the Wisconsin district, and the Democrats will carry the Louisiana district. To retain control of the House as the situation stands, the Republicans would therefore have to elect the successor to Mr. Longworth. Since the late Speaker's last majority was under 4,000, it is unlikely that at a time when the tide is running out they can hope to do so. If not, Mr. Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, may become Speaker.

Norris' Specialty.

Detroit Free Press.

When a person can do one thing well, the thing for him to do is to do that thing. Maybe that's the line Senator Norris is taking as he talks and talks and talks.

There Are Others.

Atchison Globe.

Some Republicans are worried about the first half of President Hoover's term. But we are wondering whether he'll have a first half of a second term.

Handicapped.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Military Force Necessary for National Order as Well as for Defense.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As the veteran who upheld military training, I desire to state that Miss K. W. Fisher seems to have missed the point entirely. The military forces of a nation are used as a last resort to restore law and order in civil jurisdictions, upon their demands, when the situation becomes critical, and soldiers do catch burglars and put out fires. The police of different cities aid one another, as do fire departments, and if the police of one city struck as they did in the city of Boston during the career of Calvin Coolidge as governor, the soldiery would be marched into the city, as they were, to assume authority and maintain law and order.

Several years ago the Marines were called upon to guard the mail trains and shot thieves who tried to loot the trains. During the Civil War, regiments were marched from the battlefield of Gettysburg into the city of New York and sailors were landed from the fleet, when that city was in the hands of the mob, fired upon them, shot looters, put out fires and restored order till the local authorities were able to control the situation. Only a few days ago the marines were on the front page of the newspapers as having shot looters in the city of Managua, and they also put out the fires. In the dispute between Chicago and Cleveland over the lake water level, the City of Chicago obeyed the order of the Federal Court, for that court's authority is backed by the entire strength of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and all the soldiers necessary to uphold the law.

There must be armed force for national safety. This force should be trained, so that it will be efficient. VETERAN.

Why National Defense Is Not Comparable to Fire or Police Protection.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A recent writer to your column, compared the activities of the police and fire departments one with the other, as Baltimore versus Philadelphia. The writer of the article is evidently not versed in a knowledge of constitutional law, or the conflict of laws. Miss Fisher must distinguish between the internal affairs of government and the external affairs of government. A comparison is where the father is the head of the house, so to say, and can control his son till he reaches his majority; then the son becomes a free agent, and acquires certain rights and responsibilities to which he is entitled. The father is at all time responsible to the law for his actions to other fathers of other families. If the police force of Paris tried to attack the police force of Washington, the U. S. Army would enter the scene as representative of Federal authority and stop the proceeding. It is necessary to deal with the United States as an entire unit in its relation to other foreign nations in a military sense, and it is easy to see that the weakest and the most unprepared nation will be the first to be conquered and loose its long cherished and hard fought for freedom as an independent nation. J. HOBBS.

Baseball Expert Thinks Brown Was Yanked Without Good Reason—A Great Pitcher.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I generally manage to enjoy my baseball without undue excitement, and do not often butt in where rabid fans are not afraid to tread. However, I beg leave to differ with those who agree that Lloyd Brown weakened in the ninth inning of the Griff-Athletic opening game, and that, therefore, it was good baseball to remove him from the mound.

Bear in mind the fact that from the second to the eighth inning, inclusive, he had retired the strongest batting line-up in the American League in one, two, three order, and it looks as if too timorous a chance was taken under the circumstances.

Judging from what Brown did while on the hill, I would not be surprised if he is the leading American League pitcher this year, and, anyway, it was a mighty interesting game to see, with the Griffs performing in a manner that verifies the good things that have already been said about them. JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

OLD JOHN.

He knew the flowers by name, and though a man was he,
Blood-brother to the daffodil and rose he seemed to be.
He'd lived his life among them, and when spring is in the air
There'll be sorrow in the garden for Old John will not be there.

From dawn to dusk he labored through the years among the flowers,
And I'm sure he lived a richer and a happier life than ours,
For his face was calm and placid, and he never seemed to care
For the glory that is business or the crown that skill might wear.

All his waking time was given to forget-me-nots and phlox,
To his peonies and pansies, and his sturdy hollyhocks;
And I've watched him many a summer bending over bloomy beds
Just as tender as a mother stroking little curly heads.

Now the Lord has called him yonder, and the spring is coming on
And the tulips and the jonquils will be asking: "Where is John?"
And I'm wondering what the roses and forget-me-nots will say
When the word is passed among them that Old John has gone away.

Airship and Submarine Plan Meeting in Arctic

Friedrichshafen, Germany, April 15 (A.P.).—A possible rendezvous in the polar regions between the Graf Zeppelin and Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus was forecast to the Associated Press today by Dr. Hugo Eckener.

"It is quite possible that a flight into the Arctic regions may eventuate this year," said the commander of the dirigible. "It all depends on whether we can finance the proposed expedition. If so, expect to personally command the Graf. In New York Wilkins and I agreed to try to meet in the polar wastes." If the polar flight failed to materialize, Dr. Eckener intimated, he would accept an invitation from Holland to study aviation conditions in Java, embarking for the Orient in June or July.

Japanese Pair White House's Dinner Guests

Prince and Princess Are Met by High Officials at Function.

ROMANCE had its place at the White House last night where the President and Mrs. Hoover gave a dinner in honor of their Imperial Highnesses Prince and Princess Takamatsu, who arrived in Washington yesterday from New York on a round-the-world honeymoon tour. A bride sat at the right of the President and beside the First Lady was a prince of the reigning house of Japan, third son of the late Emperor Taisho and descendant of centuries of mikados.

The guests invited to meet them represented high officials in the Department of State, War, Navy and Commerce and, of course, the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi and members of the Japanese Embassy. As chief of the Department of State there was Mr. Henry L. Stimson and Mrs. Stimson, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams and the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont completed the Cabinet representation.

Senator William E. Borah, Republican, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign affairs, and Mrs. Borah and Senator Claude A. Swanson, a member of the Senate foreign affairs committee, and Mrs. Swanson, with Senator David A. Reed and Mrs. Reed made up the Senate personnel. Senator Reed represented the United States at the London naval conference a year ago at which Japan played also an important part.

Also reviving memories of the important London parley were the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., the former having served as special Ambassador to Japan during the period of the conference and with Mrs. Castle established an enduring place of admiration and affection in far Japan, where their friends are legion.

The guests included also Mr. Sotomatsu Kato, counselor of embassy, and Mrs. Kato; Mr. Takeo Yamagata, master of ceremonies to their imperial highness; Mme. Takako Ochiai, lady in waiting to Princess Takamatsu; Mr. John Hays Hammond, Mr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the Far Eastern division of the Department of State; Mr. Richard Southgate, assistant chief of the division of protocol of the Department of State; Lieut. Comdr. Kyosuke Midzuno, aid de camp to the prince; Lieut. Comdr. Ellis M. Zacharias, long identified with naval service in the Far East, and Mrs. Zacharias; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., Mr. Allan Hoover, Capt. Russell Train, naval aid to President Hoover, and Mrs. Train, and Col Campbell B. Hodges, aid to the President.

Roses and spring flowers filled the vases in the drawing rooms and in the East Room. The table, centered by the famous Dolly Madison centerpiece, was artistic last night in an arrangement of pink tulips, snapdragons and Japanese cherry blossoms.

After the dinner he guests enjoyed an hour of conversation, the President and Mrs. Hoover having for this fete decided against the usual program of music in the East Room, which generally attends a state function.

Britons Attend Baseball Game For First Time

Pattersons Are Delighted With Exhibition in Washington.

The thrill that comes once in a lifetime! It happened on Tuesday to the Commissioner of Prisons of Great Britain, Mr. Alexander Patterson, and Mrs. Patterson, who saw their first baseball game, and, with the rest of the crowd, proclaimed delight in the fast-moving spectacle. As the guests of Mr. Sanford Bates, commissioner of prisons for the United States, and Mrs. Bates, the British visitors attended the game and had a grand time.

When Mr. and Mrs. Patterson sail for England next week they will carry with them, they declare, the memory of two thrilling and hectic hours which were climaxed, of course, by the sight of the President tossing the first ball.

Arriving in the United States in January Mr. and Mrs. Patterson have made a tour of the United States, combining pleasure with business, the latter constituting an inspection of prisons in various parts of the country. This is their third visit to Washington since the first of the year, the former visits having been made as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bates. They have been at Wardman Park Hotel, but will leave Washington today for New York.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennesby

LOG-ROLLING
THE UNITING OF NEIGHBORS IN EARLY AMERICAN DAYS, FOR LUMBERING OR LAND-CLEARING PURPOSES, WAS KNOWN AS LOG-ROLLING. FROM THEIR PRACTICE WE DREW THE EXPRESSION TO APPLY TO PERSONS OR POLITICIANS WHO MUTUALLY FURTHER EACH OTHER'S SCHEMES.
PORTER HOUSE STEAKS
IN THE EARLY DAYS IN NEW YORK, BUTCHERS RESERVED FOR THE PORTER-ALE HOUSES CERTAIN BIG HE-MAN CUTS OF STEAK, WHICH TOOK THEIR NAME FROM THESE ALE HOUSES AND BECAME KNOWN AS "PORTER-HOUSE" STEAKS.

TOMORROW—Mascots; How One-Way Streets Began; Calling "Cabbage."

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

STOP THAT ITCH.

ITCHING is not a disease. It is only a symptom. When a doctor speaks of an itching eruption he calls it pruritis and throws in a Latin adjective or two for good measure. Well, pruritis is not a disease. But itching, even by a Latin name, is very annoying, and so long as it is, the person with the itching does not care how much fighting the dogs do over the bone. He would be satisfied if he could find a way to get relief. This is a busy world and no one has time to scratch all day. For this, and other good reasons, he wants help.

Drs. Downing and Blumenfield offer him what he wants. They say calcium gluconate is what he is looking for. If he wants to take it internally, the dose is one teaspoonful three times a day. However, a better plan, these physicians say, is to inject about two and a half teaspoonfuls of a 10 per cent solution in water into the muscles, or into a vein. One injection will relieve the itching for eight hours and two injections a day should keep one reasonably comfortable.

About as effective a local sedative—that is, a remedy to ease itching—as we know of is a watery solution of carbolic acid. This, as a skin sedative, has been compared to opium as a general sedative. The objection to it is that carbolic acid is a poison, and if it be absorbed in any material quantity the kidneys will be harmed. A good deal of carbolic acid can absorb through a well scratched skin. Calcium gluconate, internally or by injection, is offered as safe.

Physicians are far from being agreed as to the physiological cause of itching. Dr. Pottenger holds that it results from some disturbance of the sympathetic nervous system. This calcium salt was chosen because calcium salts have some action on the nervous system. They are used in the treatment of tetany, convulsions, hay fever and some other diseases in which the nervous system needs stabilizing. Among the salts of calcium in use are the chloride and the lactate. The gluconate was chosen because it can be given for a long time without causing acidosis.

This remains to be said: If itching is a symptom it may have a disease cause, and it often does. The old plan of leaving a man with this symptom to scratch it out had one advantage. It made him try hard to find and remove the basic cause. If calcium gluconate proves satisfactory in giving relief it will remove the incentive to get rid of the cause.

RINGWORM.

C. F. K. writes: Please tell me what to do for ringworm on a child's neck.

REPLY.

The customary treatment for ringworm on hairless skin is to paint with iodine for three days and follow this with sulphur ointment. Some other irritating germicide might take the place of iodine.

This method will not cure ringworm on hairy skin.

Industrial Leader Backs Wage Cuts

Fallacious to Argue That Pay Must Stay Same, Alexander Asserts.

Cincinnati, April 15 (A.P.).—Magnus W. Alexander, New York, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, today declared, "It is fallacious to argue that wage rates must be maintained despite reductions in the cost of living, in order to protect the standard of living of American wage earners." Mr. Alexander's statement was given in an address prepared for the thirty-third annual meeting of the National Metal Trades Association here. Mr. Alexander was unable to attend but his address was read.

"It is after all not the money wage," he said, "but rather the real wage represented by the purchasing power of money earnings, that determines whether living standards can be maintained."

ONE of the largest and most elaborately equipped radio studios in the world is soon to be built in Philadelphia for the use of Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra. This announcement was made by WCAU, CBS outlet in Philadelphia, through Isaac D. Levy, counsel, in a plea to the Federal Radio Commission for 50,000 watts power for the station. Mr. Levy declared the maximum power would be vital, if WCAU is to carry out its plans along the lines they have laid down.

Work will commence shortly on the erecting of the roof garden of the Ritz Carlton Hotel in Philadelphia, Mr. Levy said, and three floors will be added for offices and studios of WCAU. The topmost floor is to be the workshop and studio of Dr. Stokowski. It will be large enough for the proper placement of the 100-piece symphony orchestra which he directs. Dr. Stokowski will spend several weeks in Europe consulting with European engineers, principally on acoustical problems. He has declared his intention of making the new studios and equipment as nearly perfect as possible, believing that radio has now arrived at the stage of development when, through its medium, more beautiful tonal qualities can be reproduced than can be caught by the unaided ear.

"When the projected Temple of Music is finished," Dr. Levy told the Commission, "Philadelphia will be the musical center of the world. And we expect to draw heavily upon the talent grouped there for world-wide broadcasts."

ONE of the largest choruses of trained voices ever presented on the air will be picked up from the Greek amphitheater at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, this afternoon (WRC, 3:30 p. m.). One thousand singers will be heard in Schubert's Mass in B Flat, accompanied by the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra.

Appropriate in cherry blossom time, Rudolf Schramm has arranged an "all-flower program" for tonight (WRC, 6:15 p. m.). Included are Hadley's "Ballet of the Flowers" and Kreisler's "Apple Blossoms."

About the first to specialize in radio whistling with orchestral accompaniment, Bob MacGimsey, may be heard tonight (WBAL, 8:30 p. m.).

It is believed that Erno Rapee will replace Walter Damrosch as conductor of the GE Saturday night concerts for the summer months. Dr. Damrosch will leave New York in June for a three-month tour.

A NEW Gilbert and Sullivan series will be given tomorrow night (WRC, 11:30 p. m.), under the baton of Harold Sanford.

The last time we heard of "Bill" Borealis he had gone forth in search of "Eskimosuitoes," but he will be back at the Arctic night club tomorrow night (WRC, 9 p. m.) with further outbursts of foolishness.

Probably one of the highest salaried microphone singles in the world, Charles Hamp is now appearing over WBBM, Chicago, each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 p. m., E. S. T. As the WTAM "Early Bird," he earned a national reputation.

Bringing his inimitable laugh along, Bert Lahr, comedian of "Flying High," will face the microphone in the R. K. O. program tomorrow night (WRC, 10:30 p. m.)

WITH acoustical properties all that might be desired in Mahan Hall, Annapolis, the United States Naval Academy Band is a treat for listeners who are not free to enjoy the band concerts offered during the day-time hours (WBAL, 10 p. m., tonight).

An hour later the Baltimore broadcaster offers another program, "When Some Of Us Were Twenty-one," which is meeting with wide approval.

A radio version of Shakespeare's great tragedy of ambitions, "Macbeth," will be presented by the Radio Guild tomorrow afternoon (WRC, 4 p. m.) Charles Webster, veteran Shakespearean actor, will play the title role, with Florence Malone as Lady Macbeth.

VOLNEY D. Hurd, radio editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will be the principal speaker at the radio session tomorrow noon of the American Society of Newspaper Editors at the Willard Hotel.

Orrin E. Dunlap, jr., radio editor of the New York Times, will not be present nor will Robert D. Heinl, radio editor of The Washington Post, who is recovering from an operation. Both were scheduled to speak.

Aand C NTERPRETS the MODE

Spring ensemble in lightweight serge, with interesting finger pleats for trimming. (A Dah-ray design.)

Aboard S. S. Ile de France, April 15.

AT some houses, even sports wear is average long. Lanvin, for instance, likes her sports wear 10 inches from the ankle, and that, you have to admit, is fairly long! Also this enterprising couturiere likes to make evening dresses shorter than others, just to be feminine and contradictory, yes? I have already told you how her petal-like skirts are left open almost to the knees in six or eight places on evening skirts, haven't I?

She it is who introduces novelties season after season, until one marvels that this tiny woman over 60 years of age can keep her imagination so alive. Have I told you, for instance, about the little jacket she is showing of solid, round, dull, dark reddish beads which have something religious about them? These jackets are woven by hand of the beads and threads, and have much openness between beads, as it were—an openness bridged by threads.

Another idea of hers is to make silver evening coats padded, which gives them an appearance of warmth that silver otherwise doesn't have. And then there are boleros in bright colors on pastel dresses, sometimes in rich dark colors, instead of bright, with belts matching the bolero—something in real chic, that takes the girlishness out of summer frocks, which all women over 25 appreciate. On white, dark red, dark brown, deep purple or navy blue. Or sometimes the bolero is in two colors, matched with the double belt, which is one belt of one color worn over another belt of the other color. The result is unusual, but never one of heaviness.

How about this colored bolero and double belt idea for the chic house dress? For you well know, if you are a Dahray fan, that house dresses are simply smart summer dresses, these days! You can have the bolero and belt in the offing, if you insist, and just wear the chic shantung dress of comfortable silhouette for the wielding of the broom, but chic we must have in our modern house dress! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet telling you how to make some chic new house dresses that can be summer dresses either for grown-ups or the kiddies, why not?

• • • •

See how a single idea is sometimes enlarged upon and carried out throughout an ensemble? The finger pleats, for instance, are the idea in today's ensemble of lightweight serge, and they are made to decorate the jacket, the edges of the skirt, and only the sleeves of the coat. How's that for nice! The dress is gray, the little jacket black-lined gray georgette, and the coat unlined black serge.

• • • •

And then how about the adorable little muff of red satin—well, guess! Strawberries! Actually, and worn so adorably by the mannequin robed otherwise none too frivolously in stately black velvet—only to display such a muff, worn on the right wrist and looking for all the world like a cluste of those strawberry "emery bags" we all used to have in our sewing baskets!

• • • •

So look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in the big Sunday Washington Post. You'll enjoy it, we're sure.

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

"PLEASE tell me how soon and how often to mow a new lawn, which I am planning to plant this spring." THOMAS R. W.

Begin to mow your lawn as soon as the blades of grass are tall enough to reach between the knives of a mower. How often you mow it will depend on the amount of rain we have. However, during prolonged hot, dry spells, the lawn should be watered at least twice each week and cut about once each week. Do not rake off the clippings, for they protect the lawn and help conserve moisture. Continue to cut the lawn in the fall as long as you are sure the grass is growing.

"I have a long wall; would this be a good place for iris? The space in front of the wall is two feet wide and quite sunny." MRS. HENRY S.

Better choose some other location. They would be decorative, but would not be apt to do well. You see, when planted so close to a wall, the reflected heat from the wall would be apt to bring the buds out prematurely, and if we had a late frost, they would be lost. If not killed by frost, the buds would be burned by the reflected heat.

"Could you please tell me what is wrong with my geraniums? I have eight of them and they are all the same way, main stems thick and the shoots long and slender, pale green in color, with only one leaf on each branch. They did so well in my window box last summer, I water them daily and they have no sun."

MRS. W. G. H.

It is the result of two conditions, lack of sun and the fact that they exhausted their strength last season when they bloomed for probably three months. During the winter they should have been suspended from the rafters of your cellar. Here they would have lived but not grown. At this time it would be well to take off cuttings. Your plants, if kept growing in small pots in some sunny location, will make excellent plants for your window boxes this coming season. The old plants will begin to grow and send forth new shoots as soon as the weather permits you to place them in the open.

"Please tell me how much grass seed to use to seed an area of about 250 square feet."

MR. JOSEPH G. T.

One pound will be sufficient for the area given.

"Please give me the names of three vines suitable for planting in old-fashioned hanging baskets. I refer to wire baskets."

Old-fashioned Kenilworth ivy (Linaria cymbalaria), Maurandia barclaiana and black-eyed susan vine (Thunbergia alata) are quaint old vines, but rather hard to get. As a rule, the only place to find them is in the greenhouse of some country florist who grows his own plants. You would hardly be likely to find them in the city cut-flower stores. But they are worth hunting for.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

THE family name "Bates" is of English origin, and means "the son of Bate." The personal name "Bate" may be traced back to two quite different sources. Sometimes it is a shortened form of "Bartholomew." "Bartholomew" is of Hebrew origin, and means "the son of Talmai." "Talmai" means "furrowed." Sometimes "Bate" represents the old Germanic personal name "Bado," which means "battle." An English register of the year 1379 includes the names of Alicia Bate and Adam Bate. Among the numerous distinguished persons who bore this family name were Henry Walter Bates, an English naturalist and traveler (1825-1892), and Joshua Bates, a prominent banker and chief founder of the Boston Public Library.

The family name "Farewell" (also written "Farwell") has come down to us from two quite different English sources. Most families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in the town of Farewell, in Staffordshire. This placename was written "Fayrwell" and "Fagerwelle" in the thirteenth century. Its source is the Old English "fager-wella" which may be translated "the fair or sweet spring." The town was obviously so named because of its nearness to such a spring. Occasionally "Farwell" and Farewell" were originally given as nicknames. In such cases they belong to the rather large group of English family names based on oaths and other phrases which were given as nicknames to persons who habitually used them. Thus, some people who used the expression "farewell" a little more than seemed necessary finally came to be nicknamed "Farewell." As indicated above, "Farwell" is merely a variation of "Farewell," regardless of the source. German directories sometimes show the family name "Lebwohl" which is the equivalent of the nickname "Farewell." The Hundred Rolls mentions a certain Richard Farewel and a Thomas Farewel.

Watch this column, every day. Your name will appear here.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from noon to 3 p. m., and from 6:15 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:45 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5:45 p. m.

April 16 promises, according to the planetary aspects, to be a day fraught with considerable perplexities and difficulties. Prudence and much self-trol is counseled. While it would be the height of folly to "take chances" it would be just as unfortunate to start any new enterprise.

Children born on this April 16 will be oversanguine and will always want, both mentally and physically, to bite off more than they can chew. Without curbing meritorious ambition, there must be forced on them a proper sense of perspective. Their dispositions will be naturally affectionate and impulsive.

Born on April 16 your talents are diversified and you have ability in several directions. Your head is a long one and your vision is exceptionally keen. You possess, too, some psychic gift, as you can invariably foresee the epilogue, only after witnessing the prologue. Your nature is a kindly one, and you do everything in your power to spare the feelings of others. Sometimes you go too far in this direction.

You are well liked, and your one weakness is your susceptibility to flattery—which is unction to your soul. Force, with you, can accomplish nothing. A few well-chosen encomiums of praise—even though they are not entirely merited—will influence you to an unconscionable degree. If you would only allow your own judgment to prevail, instead of allowing yourself to be moved by the wiles of others, your success would be pronounced and enduring. You evince a lively interest in mental and scientific problems, and the gratification of these tastes is your hobby; if, by an adverse fate, they are not your vocation. You should cultivate more personality, and endeavor to reflect in conversation more of what you really are, and what you stand for. Your home life will be characterized by harmony of feeling and felicity of understanding.

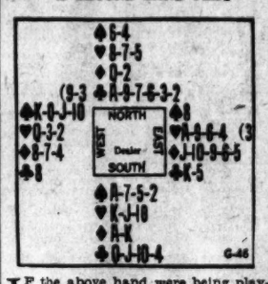
WORK ON BRIDGE

A SECOND-HAND PLAY



IF the above hand were being played at Auction Bridge, South's one No Trump would start and finish the bidding. At Contract Bridge South would bid two No Trumps, North three No Trumps.

North would be faint-hearted indeed to declare his Clubs instead of bidding for game after South's powerful opening bid. At neither Auction nor Contract should West bid having little chance for game and being in position to open and possibly run his Spades.

West's King of Spades held first trick and was followed by the Queen. On the second round East discarded a low Diamond, cleverly reasoning that a signal in Hearts would probably help the enemy more than his partner; and as East showed no more Spades, South won with the Ace. South then led the Queen of Clubs which was won by East's King. To give his partner a chance to get in East led a small Heart and South played the Ten. West won with the Queen and made four more Spade tricks and another Heart, setting the contract by the convincing margin of four tricks.

Was it an unfortunate break, an unfortunate guess, or just unfortunate thinking?

THE CORRECT PLAY

For divers and sundry reasons South should have played the King when East led Hearts at trick 4. Ordinarily it would be correct to finesse; but in this hand every effort should have been made to keep West out of the lead. If East has both high Hearts, all is well; if West has both, all is over. If East has the Queen and West the Ace, one Heart trick can be saved but West still gets in on his Spades.

The sole possibility of escaping disaster is in going up with the King on the chance that East holds the Ace. As a matter of fact, he is marked with this card; for if West had held this sure re-entry for his powerful Spades, he would have doubled three No Trumps. If South goes up with the King of Hearts, he wins five tricks in Clubs, two in Diamonds, one in Hearts and one in Spades—making the contract.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Memory Scar.

DEAR Frances McDonald—Will you please tell me, in your column, exactly what is the matter with me? Most people seem of the opinion that a woman is happiest to marry a good man, whom she can at least admire and respect, settle down in her own home and enjoy her family. I am about 30 years of age, and even yet, seem to attract fine, clean men, who are able to offer me a good home and all a woman ought to expect. Just now I have such an offer, which I must accept or refuse very soon. Now here is my trouble.

When a young girl—nearly 13 years ago, I knew and loved a boy. Yes, young as I was, I know now that I really loved him. He was very unusual, brilliant, clean in mind and habits, most unselfish and considerate and handsome. He had a brilliant future before him, our likes were the same, in fact, we had everything in common. His parents and mine were both satisfied and everything was ideal.

Circumstances took him some distance away and how eagerly I looked forward to his letters and the time when he would return to me.

Then one day came the horrible news that he had died very suddenly, calling my name to the last, but there had been no time for me to reach him before the end. No time for even a farewell.

Every one said, "She is young, she will get over it."

Well, I was under 18, but my heart was broken that day. It has been many years and I have had many admirers, several chances for a good home.

But before I can decide, the face of my boy lover comes between us and I know I do not love any other man—or ever can. If there is another happier world, where things are made right, I want my boy sweetheart—and no other. Still, I admit, life is lonely, my parents gone—my friends happy in homes of their own.

But to me it seems a crime to marry a man for a home and companionship and still love another—even though its "only a memory." I am happy in my work but practically alone in the world. My heart has been buried in a grave with my boy-lover for more than a dozen years. Please help me to see this problem in the right light.

Yours very sincerely,
"STILL TRUE."

Your whole attitude is morbid and you should certainly marry some man who would promptly convince you that the reality is better than the shadow.

In years to come memory will be of little comfort when you find yourself more and more remote from those interests every woman needs. Any psychologist will explain to you just why you believe yourself hopelessly in love with the boy who died.

Marry and shed these notions as speedily as possible.

One of the best ways to overcome between-meal fatigue is to eat a sweet of some sort or drink a beverage sweetened with sugar.

stop work when you're tired out . . .

eat something sweet

It's HARD to keep from making mistakes when you're tired out. And the more you try to fight off fatigue unaided, the quicker you'll reach a state of exhaustion.

The thing to do when you feel fatigue coming on is to stop work for a few moments and eat or drink something that contains sugar. The body is quickly revived by the physical rest and the "bite" of sweet food which is immediately digested.

Small cakes, cookies, candy, carbonated beverages, tea, coffee, chocolate and flavored milk drinks are appropriate for between-meal fatigue. People everywhere have proved the pick-up value of these snacks. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

With Deems Taylor's operatic version of "Peter Ibbetson" being sung tonight to close the three-opera season of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company at the Fox Theater, it is interesting to know that the original production of the stage play of "Peter Ibbetson" was staged in London by Clifford Brooke, now directing the National Theater Players down on E street.

When the American production of the play was undertaken with John Barrymore, Constance Collier and Lionel Barrymore in the principal roles, Mr. Brooke also was commissioned to supervise the work on this side.

Needless to say, Mr. Brooke entertains a lively interest in the operatic rendition of the drama for which the 3,500-seat Fox has been completely sold out for tonight.

Although Tuesday night's projected premiere of Lew Leslie's "Rhapsody in Black" was postponed on account of the impaired throats of some of the principals as a result of prolonged rehearsals, preparation of the piece proceeded to the daylight hour of 4:30 Wednesday morning, with the affected stars whispering their way through their lines and songs.

There will probably be a bit of talk about the versatile young woman known as Valaida, a new "discovery" of Mr. Leslie's, who has been groomed for her American debut by engagements in most of the capitals of Europe. She is quite a gal.

Discovered in Budapest's largest night club, Lotti Loder was brought to this country something over a year ago by Del Zanuck to make pictures for the Warner Brothers. Since her arrival in the United States she has appeared in "Oh, Sailor, Behave," with Olsen and Johnson; "Soldiers' Plaything," with Ben Lyon, and "Men in the Sky."

At the present time she is appearing on the stage as a featured member of Fanchon and Marco's "Seasons" Idea, which comes to the Fox Theater on Friday, meaning tomorrow, in conjunction with the new talkie version of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," starring Will Rogers.

The complete bookings for the new week in the downtown, first-run houses, by the way, are as follows: Columbia, Ruth Chatterton, in "Unfaithful;" RKO-Keith's, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, in "Cracked Nuts;" Earle, Jack Oakie and June MacCloy, in "June Moon," and Dora Maughan headlining the vaudeville bill; Palace, Georgie Cooper, Bobby Coogan and Mitzi Green in "Skippy" and stage revue; Rialto, John Gilbert, Lella Hyams and Anita Page, in "A Gentleman's Fate;" Fox, Will Rogers, in "A Connecticut Yankee;" Metropolitan, Bert Lytell and Kay Johnson, in "The Single Sin."

If you have been wondering what has become of Ben Turpin, once king of the Sennett lot, he will be on view at the RKO-Keith Theater next week—that is, beginning tomorrow—in "Cracked Nuts." He is cast as that most helpful and heartening of individuals, a cockeyed aviator!

If you have made a definite mental record of the dates on which "A Modern Virgin" and "Up Pops the Devil" are to be presented at the Belasco, it will be necessary to reverse the order.

"Up Pops the Devil" will occupy the boards beginning a week from Monday, April 27, and "A Modern Virgin," the new Elmer Harris comedy, originally booked for that time, will arrive for the week beginning May 4.

"A Modern Virgin" has been deferred a trifle, I am led to believe, to permit a few substitutions in the cast. Most important of these to the Washington public, no doubt, is that which places Herbert Rawlinson, former motion picture star and for many weeks master of ceremonies at the Palace Theater in this city, in the leading male role.

Pola Negri is a gamester, at any rate.

The Polish star is now on her way to Hollywood with a signed contract that is a gamble, pure and simple. When she arrives on the West Coast, Radio Pictures will give her a screen and voice test. If successful, she holds a contract for one picture, every detail of which is to be decided by herself. If the tests turn out negatively, Radio will bear the expenses of her journey back home.

The odds, it seems to me, should be in her favor. It is hardly reasonable to suppose that the talent that blazed its way to glory in such pictures as "Passion," "One Arabian Night" and "Gypsy Blood" should have burnt itself out in so short a time.

And just to illustrate how potent the studio influence really is, Al Boasberg's new home at Malibu Beach is called "Yes Manor!"

UNITED STATES COURT OF CUSTOMS AND PATENT APPEALS.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1931.

Present: Presiding Judge William J. Graham and Associate Judges Oscar E. Bland, Charles Hatfield, Finis J. Garrett and Irvine L. Lenroot.

CUSTOMS.

No. 3329. Faber, Coe & Gregg, Inc., vs. The United States. Opinion by Hatfield, associate judge. The importers filed two protests claiming they were entitled to a 20 per cent. reduction on internal revenue tax paid on cigars imported from Cuba, by virtue of the reciprocity treaty with Cuba. The United States Customs Court dismissed the first protest as being prematurely filed, and dismissed the second protest for lack of jurisdiction. Their judgment is affirmed as to the dismissal of the first protest, and reversed as to the dismissal of the second protest, and it is held that the importers had the right to protest, but that they are not entitled to the 20 per cent reduction on internal revenue tax.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE FORM TO BE URGED

District Bankers' Body to Recommend Revising Power of Attorney.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Recommendation by the standardized forms committee, District of Columbia Bankers Association, that the association adopt the New York Stock Exchange power-of-attorney form is forecast by a report on the committee's recent activities published in the April number of The Bulletin, official organ of the bankers association, which will be distributed today.

While the Washington Stock Exchange has taken no action on the matter as yet, The Bulletin states, "It will be pointed out that the banks of the District of Columbia might safely adopt the form specified by the New York Stock Exchange, and at the same time have all the protection that the power-of-attorney now in use by our members furnishes.

"From the opinion of the office of the general counsel of the association, the New York Stock Exchange form, being an absolute and unrestricted assignment and power, carries with it the lesser right, that is, the right to hypothecate; however, where certificates presented for pledge are in the names of others than the party presenting them, a form of certificate of authority will also be recommended in order to avoid the possibility of any question arising as to the notice of a right and equities in other parties."

Washington Form Questioned.

The question was referred to the committee in December. It arose over the stock power form adopted some years ago by the Washington Stock Exchange, and now used by most member banks. It appears that stock sold and delivered, accompanied by the form now in use in Washington, is not accepted by brokers of the New York Stock Exchange as constituting a good delivery.

Two standardized agreements to be used by banks maintaining night depositories have been adopted by the committee. One is to be used where the pouch is to be opened the next banking day by the depositor or his personal representative and the other, where it is to be opened by the bank and the contents placed to the credit of the depositor.

While the proper form to be used will depend upon the type of depository, these forms, it is felt, might be illustrative of one that should be adopted. Vice President and Cashier Thomas J. Groom, Bank of Commerce & Savings, is chairman of this committee.

Miss Woodcock to Speak.

Miss Mildred C. Woodcock, American Security & Trust Co., will be the speaker for Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the public speaking contest for this district of the institute at Lancaster, Pa., May 6. Miss Woodcock, who is chairman of the woman's committee of the local chapter, will compete with contestants from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

The winner of this event will go to the national convention of the institute at Pittsburgh next June and there deliver an oration in a contest for the following prizes: First, $500; second, $300; third, $200; fourth, $100. The winner of each district contest will receive his or her railway fare to Pittsburgh and $100 per personal expenses.

Donald Childress is now asociated with James M. Johnston & Co. For the past two years he has been connected with the Utility Securities Corporation. Before entering the investment banking business, Mr. Childress attended Central High School and North Carolina State College at Raleigh, being prominent in athletics at both places.

Deputy Comptroller of the Currency F. G. Awalt delivered an address yesterday before Philadelphia Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

Building Association Elects.

The annual election of the Citizens Equitable Building Association of Georgetown was held Monday night at their building, 1237 Wisconsin avenue. The reports as shown by those submitted to the Comptroller of the Treasury as well as that of the secretary up to April 1 showed the affairs of the association to be in a most satisfactory condition. The officers were considerably pleased by the report of the Treasury Department examiners, as they stated it was O. K. in every department.

The board of directors elected by the stockholders resulted as follows: Messrs. J. M. Burns, Isaac Burch, P. T. Carr, John Hadley Doyle, Dr. Robert E. Layton, J. Leo Kolb, George A. Scheele and R. E. Mayfield.

The officers elected for the present year were as follows: Thomas J. Stanton, president; I. B. Nordlinger, vice president; secretary, H. W. Burnside; assistant secretary, Mrs. I. B. Arendes, and treasurer, Harry B. Selby. The sixty-sixth issue of stock was ordered to be issued as of the date of April 1, 1931.

CONOCO

We don't sell Germ-Processed Oil on claims...we just show you the test results, figured out in fractions...

IT'S comfortable to know that the oil you are using will result in gasoline and oil economies. A prominent southwestern bus line (name on request) wanted to know. They put Germ-Processed Motor Oil to the test in a 25-passenger bus. Competent engineers checked every detail of operating cost and maintenance during 7,488 miles of regular passenger service, comparing the results with an equal test of the competing oil.

When the test ended it was found that Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil had reduced oil consumption by 13% and had lowered gasoline consumption by 14.3%

Such economies are also possible in your car. And there are other advantages which soon become evident to the user of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil, each proved by authoritative tests. Your own test-through-use will be most convincing. Have your crankcase filled today with Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil at the nearest sign of the Conoco Red Triangle. All grades 35¢ per quart.

STOCK PRICES DROP ON STEEL REPORT

Large Number of Leading Issues Down 3 Points; Others 4 Lower.

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—Pessimistic reports from the steel industry added to the stock market's gloom today, and prices skidded sharply, with the high grade issues heading the decline.

Although the turnover of only 2,000,000 shares emphasized the professional character of the trading, the absence of support could not be overlooked. United States Steel broke 3 points to the lowest since 1928 and closed at the bottom, 133⅜. New York Central's similar loss carried it back to 1924 levels, while Allied Chemical and Westinghouse, off more moderately, were down to 1927 prices. Railroad averages broke through their previous 1930 minimums, but the Standard Statistics' composite for the group held above the December bottom.

The weekly steel reviews were discouragingly negative. Iron Age placed operations down 2 points to 51 per cent of capacity where any producers can just about break even. Railroad orders are well below normal, farm equipment demand is slack and prospective automobile production seems to be somewhat nebulous, although current activity is running ahead of March. Nevertheless, the market summaries pointed out, there is no unanimity of opinion that the industry has passed the seasonal peak, however pessimistic sentiment may be in outside circles.

The list of stocks down about 3 points net was rather formidable. It included, in addition to Steel common and Central, such issues as American & Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, American Waterworks, National Steel, Standard Gas, Case and Atchison. American Telephone was off 3 at one time, but halved its decline.

American Can and New Haven lost 4; Union Carbide, Bethlehem, North American, Allied Chemical, Prisco, Du Pont and Southern Railway, 2, and General Electric, General Motors, Westinghouse, Kennecott, Chrysler, Baltimore & Ohio, Loew's, Radio, Paramount and National Biscuit, 1 to 1¾ net. Byers and Ingersoll Rand were off 5, General American Tank 4¾, Auburn Auto 7 and Vanadium, which had not fully discounted the dividend omission, nearly 7. Tobaccos were again firm.

FOREIGN BONDS SINK TO LOWER PRICES

Utilities and Rails Also Suffer Drops at Close of Market.

New York, April 15 (A.P.)—Foreign bonds, particularly Latin American issues, led the bond market to lower levels today. Argentine and Brazilian obligations reflected the greatest pressure. The former group made net losses ranging from 2 to 6½ points and the turnover in most of them was heavy. The issues of the City and Province of Buenos Aires were less active than those of the national government and their losses were smaller and trading in a great news of the resignation of the Argentine cabinet.

The reason for the action of the Brazilian issues was less tangible and their losses were more moderate. Bearish rumors about them were revived. Declines of other foreign loans were smaller and a trading in a great many of them was quiet.

Public utility, industrial and railroad bonds, with the exception of the highest grade obligations of all three groups were generally lower, but the recession of the first two was less apparent than among the last group.

Wall street is scanning the outlook for Treasury financing with the knowledge that a total of $214,000,000 in bills falls due on May 4, 5 and 18. The expectation is that new issues of bills will be issued to take the place of those maturing next month and possibly the new offering will be somewhat larger than the maturities. At this time an increase of $400,000,000 in the Treasury's net debt is expected by the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

An issue of $10,084,000 of City of Toronto debentures is being offered by a syndicate headed by Bancamerica-Blair Corporation at prices to yield from 3 to 4.45 per cent. The issue bears 4½ per cent and will mature in 10 to 30 years. They were awarded today on a bid of 100.3595.

A syndicate headed by the Guaranty Co. of New York is offering $8,200,000 of 4 per cent bonds maturing from 1936 to 1951 at prices to yield from 3.50 to 3.70 per cent.

Curb Review

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—The curb was heavy today, but volume shrank to the slim proportions witnessed in last week's slow decline.

Bears who tried to make capital of unfavorable news developments, including the rise in crude oil production and the continued decline in steel operations, succeeded in getting prices moderately lower during the early trading. Thereafter, they ran into formidable dullness, and there were rallying intervals.

Petroleum shares were rather depressed, although losses held to small amounts. Standard of Indiana eased to a new low. Saxet, strong earlier in the week, was sold and Vacuum were steady.

Selling in the utilities was scattered and dried up when a fair degree of resistance developed. Electric Bond & Share dipped below 47 for a loss of a point, but acted better after the supply diminished.

General Theaters Equipment preferred, Swift Internacional, U. S. Dairy "A," Ford of Canada "A," Newmont Mining, Noranda and Dresser "B" were heavy. Pilot Radio "A" lost about half of its recent rise. Northwest Yeast, trading in odd lots, was active but erratic. Investment trusts eased, although transactions were unusually small.

Call money renewed on the curb at 2 per cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—An early decline in cotton was followed by a partial recovery on trade buying and covering today, but prices eased again later under continued liquidation and scattered selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, a fairly favorable weather map and weakness in the stock market. All contracts after selling off to 10.39 rallied to 10.48, but later declined to 10.37 and closed at 10.38. The general market closed barely steady at net losses of 11 to 13 points.

The opening was steady 7 to 9 points lower in response to the cables and reports of favorable weather in the South. There was some comment on unfavorable features in the weekly weather report, but without much effect on the market, which worked gradually lower to 10.43 and then to 10.15 and October to 10.16, later in the morning, or about 13 to 14 points net lower. This decline seemed to bring in more trade buying, while there was also considerable covering, on which a good part of the losses were recovered during the early afternoon.

May sold up to 10.24 and October to 10.81, within 4 or 5 points of yesterday's closing quotations and the more active positions, but this bulge was met by renewal of pressure. Offerings were not heavy, but there seemed to be small selling orders from various quarters, including further liquidation, and some realizing and hedge selling combined with selling from house street sources. What was probably promoted by the action of the stock market. May sold off to 10.14 and October to 10.71, and the close was within a point or two of the lowest.

Reports that planting was making considerable progress following recent delays as a result of low temperatures, encouraged talk of a favorable start for the new crop with seasonable weather from now on. This view combined with uncertainty as to the acreage and the easier ruling of the stock market was quite generally mentioned in connection with the selling, while the rally during the middle of the day was attributed partly to an improved technical position.

Liverpool cables said the market there had been influenced by local, Manchester and continental liquidation and reported an improved cloth inquiry and reported Egyptian futures in Alexandria were 30 to 42 points lower. Exports today, 24,721, making 5,871,706 so far this season. Port receipts, 3,975. U. S. port stocks, 3,589,724.

16 WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1931.

HADLEY HOLDS ATHLETICS TO 4 HITS IN 7-1 VICTORY

July 3 Is Set As Date for Title Bout

Schmeling - Stribling to Fight 15 Rounds in Cleveland.

110,000 Is Capacity of Arena; German to Take Rest.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 15 (U.P.).—With a faint-hearted attempt at Ballyhoo, officials of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois announced officially today that the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling bout for the world's heavyweight championship will be held at Cleveland the night of July 3.

Legislated out of New York and muscled out of Chicago, the bout was welcomed with open arms by Cleveland, according to announcements by Dick Dunn, representative of Madison Square Garden, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling.

The bout will be fifteen rounds and will be Schmeling's first defense of his clouded title. He won it from Jack Sharkey last year on a foul, but the New York State Athletic Commission has since withdrawn its recognition because the German refused to meet Sharkey in a return bout. The National Boxing Association still recognizes Schmeling as champion.

110,000 Capacity Of Stadium.

The new Cleveland Stadium, with its seating capacity of 110,000, which will be virtually completed in June, will be the scene of the bout. Prices will range from $25 to $2, including tax.

The announcement was made here today because of Schmeling's presence in one of the last appearances of his exhibition tour.

Oddly enough, the last time any negotiations went on here for a heavyweight title bout was in 1926 when Jack Dempsey signed to meet Harry Wills for Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons. That match was never held, and from the interest aroused by Schmeling and today's announcement, it seems that a lot of people won't care if the same thing happens to this one.

Sheldon Clark, Chicago sportsman, in an official statement, said the fact that Illinois had no legislation for 15-round bouts and the attitude of the Chicago press prevented the Windy City from getting the match.

Cleveland Chosen as Central Locality.

"Cleveland was picked because of its central locality," said Jacobs. "Half the population of the United States is within 500 miles of Cleveland, and they are sure to draw a $1,000,000 gate. The new Cleveland Stadium is an ideal fight arena. Every seat will be a ringside seat."

Schmeling will go to French Lick Springs, Ind., tomorrow for a two weeks' vacation before completing his exhibition tour. He has five more dates to fill and will wind up in Chicago May 8. He will begin training near Cleveland about the middle of May.

New York, April 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Maud K. Stevenson, of Roslyn, Long Island, known in steeplechase and hunt circles throughout the East, was married yesterday to S. Bryce Wing, of Moncton, Md. There had been no announcement of the engagement, and the wedding was a surprise to many of their friends.

Mr. Wing is master of hounds at Harford County, Md., and a member of Meadowbrook, Piping Rock, Turf and Field, and the Baltimore Clubs. It is his second marriage. Mrs. Wing has been married twice before, the last time to Malcolm Stevenson, polo player.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 15 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes was in midseason form today, had his spitter working right, and registered the second straight victory for the St. Louis Cardinals over the Cincinnati Reds by 4 to 0.

Douthit and Adams each made three hits for the National League champions, while Nick Cullop, new Cincinnati outfielder, with three safeties, was the only Red able to effectively solve Grimes' delivery.

Phils Get 8 in Second To Defeat Giants, 10-7

Philadelphia, April 15 (A.P.).—One big inning, the second, in which they shelled the rookie, Hal Schumacher, and Bill Morrell for eight runs, enabled the Phillies to defeat the Giants, 10 to 7, today and square their series.

Chuck Klein, Philly outfielder, who hit two homers on opening day, again was a big factor, getting four hits in four times up, including one for the circuit.

The Giants made a gallant effort to stave off defeat with a rally in the ninth, scoring three runs and knocking Clise Dudley, starting Philly pitcher, from the mound.

7 Errors Aid Braves To Beat Robins, 9 to 3

Boston, April 15 (A.P.).—Taking full advantage of seven errors by their opponents, the Braves mauled the Brooklyn Robins, 9 to 3, here today, making it two straight over the Flatbush flock.

The veteran Socks Seibold pitched sensational ball for the winners, holding the Robins to eight hits, six of which were made in the last two frames. Eight of Boston's runs were made off Hollis Thurston, the first of four Brooklyn flingers who tried their hand. Only one Brave, Maguire, failed to hit safely.

Chisox Beat Tribe; Tate Doubles in Tenth

Cleveland, Ohio, April 15 (A.P.).—Turning back a late rally, the Chicago White Sox usually evened the score of their series with the Cleveland Indians by winning a 7-to-6 margin, in ten innings.

Fay Thomas, Pacific Coast recruit, was victimized for the winning run. He walked Watwood, first man up in the tenth, then Kamm sacrificed and Benny Tate, catcher, smacked a hefty double off the screen in right field to score Watwood. Veteran Willis Hudlin had been shelled from the mound. Cecil Pat Caraway was relieved in the ninth, with Cleveland tying the score and Hal McKain finished, to get credit for the victory.

Home Run by Hornsby Helps Cubs Beat Bucs

Chicago, April 15 (A.P.).—Manager Rogers Hornsby's home run in the fifth inning today provided the Cubs with a 6-to-5 victory over Pittsburgh for their second straight of the season.

The Cubs scored in the first inning and cracked Claud Willoughby for four more in the third. The Rajah caught one and drive it out of the park in the fifth, after the Pirates had nicked Bob Smith for two in the first half of the inning. Pittsburgh rallied for three in the sixth, but was held in check thereafter.

YANKEES WIN IN 9TH OVER RED SOX

Johnson Fans 12 But Weakens; Ruth's Fly Decides Game.

NEW YORK, April 15 (A.P.).—Fourteen Red Sox were strikeout victims today, twelve of them fanning at Henry Johnson's curves, but they gave the Yankees a merry tussle, nevertheless. Not until the last of the ninth did the homelings put across the winning run in their 8 to 7 victory.

Johnson weakened in the eighth after his great fanning bee and was relieved by Sherid, off whom the Red Sox scored two runs to tie the count in the ninth.

With the bases full in the last of the ninth, Babe Ruth sent a long fly to right and Bill Dickey crossed with the winning run after Webb's catch.

Lou Gehrig homered in the first inning, when the Yankees scored five runs and knocked Danny MacFayden from the box.

Robins, With Nine Errors In Two Games, Unreformed

By DIXON STEWART.

NEW YORK, April 15 (U.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins are up to their old stunt of kicking away ball games, and pre-season beliefs that Uncle Robbie's charges would dominate the National League race have received no justification as yet.

If two games against Boston are any criterion, the Robins are not a reformed club, as some had expected. The ease with which Brooklyn tossed away the contests have brought back memories of the "dizziness boys'" feats of other years.

The Robins have made nine errors in two days of play—two in yesterday's opener and seven in today's 9-to-3 defeat. True, the Robins are handicapped by the absence of two star infielders, Captain Glenn Wright and Second Baseman Fresco Thompson. Replacements for these stars—Finn and Slade—have turned in four errors, but the other misplays have been made by regulars, men who are the backbone of Brooklyn's team.

Lopez, the Robins' promising young catcher, who has been touted as the equal of Mickey Cochrane and Gabby Hartnett, is charged with three fumbles. He got by with a lone misplay yesterday, but was charged with two errors today, before being removed in the fifth inning.

Wally Gilbert, regular third baseman, and Outfielder "Babe" Herman were the other culprits. Although Herman is charged officially with only one error of commision, he has had several errors of omission.

It was suggested two years ago that Herman needed a helmet to protect his head on fly balls, and the fact that he catches them at all is indicative of improvement in his ability. His lone official error in four innings of play today was a muffed fly, but on two other occasions questionable throws from Herman resulted in errors for Lopez, and once Babe was so slow returning the ball from the outfield that he gave Boston an extra run.

Brooklyn also is experiencing difficulty in getting the pitchers and batters working together. Yesterday the Robins hit the ball hard in the early innings and got away to a good lead, only to curl up and appear helpless at the plate, after Boston began getting to Pitcher Quinn. Today they had neither hitting nor pitching, getting only eight scattered blows off Seibold while the Braves were pounding four Robins pitchers for seventeen safeties.

Harvard 4-3 Victor Over Navy Nine

Des Roches Singles in Pinch to Score Winning Run.

Hodgkins' Single in First Gives Navy Two-Run Lead.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 15.—Naval Academy tossers bowed to Harvard University's nine here this afternoon as Pinch Hitter Des Roches slugged a sharp single to left field scoring two teammates. The final score of the well-played game, marked by particularly speedy outfielding, was 4 to 3.

Des Roches' blow saved the day for the Crimson as the Tars led throughout a major portion of the contest. The tilt was in the main a pitchers' duel with honors about even between Schultz, of Navy, and MacHale, both right-handers, until Des Roches inserted his bingle.

Wood had singled and Bassett walked. As Reed hit a ground ball, Wood was caught off base but managed to return to third safely and Reed reached second as Bassett was run down at third. Des Roches' bingle followed.

Navy Starts With Two-Run Rally.

Navy got a brace of runs in the initial frame. Fitzgerald opened with a single and Ashworth was safe when Batchelder erred on the third strike. "Ted" Hodgkins, Navy batting ace, scored both with a long single.

The Navy lead, was short lived, however, as Harvard knotted the count in the third. Ticknor beat out a bunt and reached second as Schultz, handling Wood's roller threw wild to second on what should have been a double play. Both runners moved up a base on Kiernan's infield out, and tallied when Bassett connected safely to right.

Navy regained the margin in the next inning when Bunce singled to center and stole second from where he registered on Torgerson's base wallop. Navy held the lead thereafter until the fatal eighth.

MacHale's change of pace kept the Middies popping up in the late sessions although there were several scoring opportunities.

Crowder Due To Face A's Today

Liska Ready for Test of Sore Arm in Ten Days.

WITH the count evened in play to date, the Nationals hope to step in the van in the current series by taking this afternoon's third game with the world's champion Athletics. "General" Alvin Crowder did not make a great impression when he essayed a relief role in Tuesday's opener, but Manager Walter Johnson plans to give him the mound assignment today, and much better things are expected of him.

Crowder faced the A's in six games last season and managed to gain an even break, dividing two as a Brownie and winning two

BALKO WINS THE $10,000 "GRAW" FEATURE IN ROMP.

Sprint Champ Shows 1930 Class

Gives Owner Second Successive Purse in Harford.

Sun Beau Near Record Time in Taking Fourth Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Md., April 15.—Balko, carrying the colors of Mrs. Charles Emery's Sagamore Stable, like the champion sprinter that he is, today won the Nineteenth Harford Handicap $10,000 added, by a length and a half. George D. Widener's three-year-old, Panetian, was second by a head from Glen Riddle Farm's Sea Fox. Admiral Carey T. Grayson's Happy Scot was fourth. Time 1.11 4-5 and the winner carried 126 pounds, conceding to the second horse 23 pounds. The winner was coupled with The Heathen, and the entry paid $5.50.

This entry won the Harford last year, but The Heathen was first then and Balko second, while this year The Heathen was not a contender in the final run down the stretch. Today's race was worth $9,950 to the Sagamore Stable.

There was a large crowd, one of the largest of the meeting, and among the notables present was Vice President Charles Curtis.

Balko Always Has Race At Mercy.

The Heathen ran second to the head of the stretch, when he dropped out. Balko went to the front at the first quarter and Bejahak held him in restraint. Happy Scot moved up and Balko soon raced the derby candidate into defeat. At the six-teenth both Panetian and Sea Fox challenged and they came under the wire very close together, but never had a chance to catch the black horse out in front. This made a double for the Sagamore Stable and for its leading jockey, J. Bejshak. Billy Kelly won the Harford three times and Exterminator once.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's colors were borne to victory in the first race, for 2-year-old colts and geldings, by Stephen Fetchit, a chestnut colt by The Porter—Sobranje. He was grouped in the field. William Zeigler, jr.'s Phantom General was second and the Palmwood Stable's Golden Spur third. Westy Junior finished fourth. This was the second straight victory for Mrs. Whitney at this track. The winner paid $18.

The field was at the post fourteen minutes. Air Pilot and Phantom General caused the delay, Ellis being unseated by the Zeigler colt. Bonnie Brae broke in front, but was eased back when in close quarters on the back stretch. Westy Junior went to the front, but Stephen Fetchit passed him and won by a length. The next three horses were heads apart. Time, 0:55.

Primlin, 100-1 Shot, Places In Second.

Philadelphia again scored in the second race, when George D. Widener's Half Day won by three lengths. Mrs. E. L. Shewbridge's Primlin was second by a head and Roan Antelope third. Dancing Mack was fourth. Time, 1:13 4-5. The winner was the favorite, and paid $5.90, while Primlin, which set the pace to the stretch, paid $81.80 for place and $60.80 to show. Roan Antelope was an outsider also. The last named is a gray gelding by Man o' War and belongs to the Mapleton stud.

There was quite a stir when Primlin started far in the lead and was 100 to 1 on the board. Eaby reserved Half Day until making his run in the stretch. The winner was much the best of the field.

The Albemarle, third race, brought out Ilium and Rip Van Winkle, candidates for the Preakness and Derby, and John Barton, nominated for the Derby. The Sagamore Stable's Rip Van Winkle won in a stretch battle with Ilium, getting the decision by a half length. Four lengths back H. Teller Archibald's Jolly King was third. Hold Hard fourth. Time, 1:44 3-5, a mile and 70 yards.

Sun Beau Near Record Time In Fourth.

Ilium led to the three-sixteenth pole, in the stretch, when Bejshak brought Rip Van Winkle around him. Ilium came again and was pressing the victor hard at the finish.

The Bayview Handicap, fourth race, was merely a gallop for Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, which led from the clubhouse turn, turning in an outstanding performance, being timed in 1:42 3-5, for the mile and 70 yards, within three-fifths of a second of the record. William T. was second and Folking third. Full Dress was the other starter.

Kurtsinger had the mount on Sun Beau. The fractional time, 24 2-5, 48 2-5, 1:13, and the mile in 1:38 2-5. He paid $2.60 and seems to have the $10,000 Philadelphia Handicap Saturday at his mercy. The best son of Sun Briar—Beautiful Lady advanced his total winnings to $267,819. The horse was running on his own courage, seeming to have become determined when about to be pinched on the first turn and he could have lengthened his margin of six lengths if he had been urged.

Negodale, in winning the seventh race, added to his distinction as being a strong and consistent horse. It was his sixth straight victory, four times winning at Bowie and twice at Havre de Grace. He won a race last year in New York twice. The first time was a false start and all the field called back except Negodale. He ran all the way around the track and the field was lined up for a new start and he led all the way. He runs on any kind of track, and his race today was the first time he had gone a mile and a furlong.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STEPEN FETCHIT (field), $18.00, $7.50, $3.20; PHANTOM GENERAL, $10.10, $4.50; GOLDEN SPUR, $2.90.

STEPEN FETCHIT, away in the first flight, displayed keen speed to reach the leaders approaching the home stretch, closed fast while on the outside and moving to the front inside the final furlong had enough left to withstand PHANTOM GENERAL. The latter repeatedly broke through the barrier and delayed the start. He was away well and raced prominently from the start to hold on stoutly at the end. GOLDEN SPUR, a forward factor throughout, continued gamely under a stiff drive the last furlong. WESTY JUNIOR finished stoutly. He met with slight interference following the start. INDICATIVE showed speed for the first half mile. AIR PILOT acted fractiously while at the post. He showed early foot. BONNIE BRAE was crowded back when leaving the back stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds: claiming. Start good, from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:17½. Winner, George D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HALF DAY, $5.90, $4.50, $3.50. PRIMLIN, $81.50, $60.80; ROAN ANTELOPE, $9.70.

HALF DAY, sprinted along in pursuit of the leaders for the first half mile, swung to the outside when moving up, wore the leaders down steadily and drew clear while under restraint. PRIMLIN set a fast early pace, raced GILDED ARCH and ROAN ANTELOPE into defeat and held on gamely. ROAN ANTELOPE, a forward factor from the start, responded to punishment, and came again in the final stages. DANCING MACK broke slowly, worked his way up on the outside and closed resolutely on the outside. GILDED ARCH, hard urged from the beginning, was forced to finish in tiring quarters during the final furlong. ALBAZANO was making up ground slowly. DUNFERN showed a flash of speed rounding the turn.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIP VAN WINKLE, $4.40, $3.30, $2.70. ILIUM, $5.50, $3.80; JOLLY KING, $5.00.

RIP VAN WINKLE rushed into a forward position going to the first turn. Was rated along under stiff restraint in back of ILIUM until entering into the home stretch, took command under pressure and was hard ridden at the end. ILIUM showed good speed while setting the pace. Saved ground for the entire trip, and held on with good energy when pleased to a drive. JOLLY KING, slow to settle in his stride and a trailer for the first six furlongs, closed full of run through the final furlong. HOLD HARD moved up stoutly rounding the far turn, but was not good enough in the final issue. SAND BELL went well for the first five furlongs. SERGT. DONALDSON was done after six furlongs.

SUN BEAU, full of run from the start, assumed command while under stiff restraint, raced hard held for the entire trip and was being eased all during the final furlong. WILLIAM T. reserved off the pace for six furlongs, was taken around FOLKING entering the home stretch, closed with good speed, but was no match for the winner. FOLKING was strongly urged from the beginning. He weakened during the closing furlong. FULL DRESS was never able to offer contention.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BALKO (Sagamore-Pierce entry), $5.50, $3.40, $2.80; PANETIAN, $13.90, $8.10; SEA FOX, $12.60.

BALKO quick to get into full stride, raced into a good lead early, saved ground wherever possible and holding on gamely had enough left to withstand PANETIAN. Latter worked his way up steadily in the early stages, secured clear passage next the inner rail during the stretch run to finish stoutly. SEA FOX outrun early, improved his position on the outside and was going stoutly at the end. HAPPY SCOT, hard hustled from the start, continued gamely when the real test came. THE HEATHEN raced under slight restraint for the first half mile and then held on well. FORTUNATE YOUTH was outrun. PROTRACTOR fell back steadily after five furlongs. BARRIDO met with early interference. SPINACH lacked early speed. He was worked out a mile. SMEAR sulked and would not extend herself.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EAGER PLAY, $7.10, $4.50, $3.30; PUNISHMENT, $5.90, $4.20; BATTLING ON, $6.20.

EAGER PLAY forced back directly following the start, when caught in tight quarters, was taken to the outside when settled on the back stretch, moved into contention with a rush when rounding the far turn, wore BATTLING ON down and came away into an easy lead the last sixteenth. PUNISHMENT, well up from the beginning, held on courageously when placed to punishment. BATTLING ON showed good early speed to set the pace, saved ground, but tired rapidly in the closing test. WORRIER was forced to be hard urged, when he was pinned in next the inner rail in the early stages. He weakened from his efforts when the final drive came. POLITEN, a slow beginner, closed fast through the final stages. GLENNO was unable to menace the leaders. MAKE BELIEVE tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good, from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:51. Off at 5:51½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEGODALE, $5.90, $3.70, $2.80; SEA SCAMP, $14.00, $6.40; DOUBLE O., $4.40.

NEGODALE, stoutly urged to reach the front going to the first turn, was rated along thereafter while resisting keen contention from HANRAHAN, shook the latter off rounding the final turn, and kept under strong urging thereafter withstood SEA SCAMP. Latter sent into a contending position and rated along responded when called on to finish stoutly. DOUBLE O., rushed hard from the start, faltered when the real issue came. FOUNDATION STONE was gaining slowly at the end. ERA raced poorly. She was poorly ridden; he would have been closer with intelligent handling. COGWHEEL raced poorly.

Eastern Hits 5 Homers In Defeating Emerson

With four pitchers breezing them by the Emerson batters, and a full complement of Eastern stickmen pounding the ball to the tune of five home runs and a squad of lesser hits, Eastern High, playing its first game of the year, after an extensive practice season, swept over Emerson Institute yesterday in a practice tussle at Eastern by a score of 15 to 7, in a game called at the end of the seventh by mutual agreement.

The reserve strength of the Eastern Team of 1931 was plainly noticeable as the subs kept battering out Eastern's average of two runs an inning after being injected in the fray in the fifth.

Lanahan, Eastern's pitching ace, was taken out of the game after the third inning after holding the Emerson Club to one run and fanning six batters.

Smith and Calevas, of the winners, were the batting heroes of the day, garnering a brace of four sack blows each.

CENTRAL HIGH TRIUMPHS OVER GONZAGA NINE, 4-2

Cleary Victim Of Rally in 3d Inning

Purple Gets Lead Off Wright; Checked by De Bettencourt.

Game Goes 5 Innings; Hefling Gets 3 Two-Base Hits.

IN its first local appearance, Central High School's baseball team batted Cleary hard in one inning yesterday at the Monument Grounds, to take a 4-2 decision from Gonzaga. It was a game fairly clean of errors, and featured by a trio of sizzling doubles batted out by Heflin, Central shortstop, who last year played for Tech.

Cleary, Gonzaga's ace pitcher, carried the flinging burden throughout the five innings played, and turned in a presentable job, excepting in the third, when four clean blows accounted for a quartet of runs. He allowed six hits in all, and struck out three Blue and White players.

Gonzaga was off to a lead of 2-0 before Central broke into the scoring. Four free passes by Wright, pitcher of three frames for Central, were responsible for the Purple runs. Gonzaga did not threaten after De Bettencourt was sent in to relieve Wright. The gangling Central flinger struck out two and held the others harmless durnig his reign in the box.

Heflin Brings Home 2 Runs in Third.

Heflin's three doubles in three times at bat were clean-hit drives to left center. Two were harmless, in that no runners were on base, and Heflin himself was allowed to wilt on base twice, but his third-inning drive sent Klaben and Cooke across, and he himself scored on White's single down the third-base line.

VA. CLUBS IN MEETING TONIGHT

Districts Planned; Virginia Juniors Organizs.

PLANS for the organization of the Virginia section of the Capital City League will be discussed tonight at 8 o'clock in room 2 of the District Building in Washington.

The Old Dominion loop's prospects for a successful season are brighter this year than they have been for the past several seasons. This despite the fact that last year's group was one of the most powerful of all the Capital City units. Competition in this section for The Post's gold baseballs has always been of the keenest sort, with hard-fought games marking the play of all teams. It has not been definitely learned whether the Bauserman Motor Co., last season's champs, will be reprdesented on the diamond this year, but it is known that the league will be up to its full strength in the number of teams represented, and all of these have gained added strength by virtue of new players signed.

At the meeting tonight the rules will be thrashed out, umpires selected, and all business essential to the operation of the league transacted. Teams that are undecided about their entry in the circuit are invited to have representatives present to follow the trend of discussion so that they will be fully informed on all league topics.

Stanford and Harvard Will Move Grid Game

Stanford University, Calif., April 15 (A.P.).—Refusal of Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, to permit the Dartmouth-Stanford football game to be played in Harvard Stadium November 28 next, will result in the contest being played in another locality, Al Masters, graduate manager of Stanford, said today.

"The game will not be called off," Masters said. "It will be played either in Philadelphia or Chicago on November 28. If we can not schedule it in either of these cities, it is possible we will bring it back to Stanford Stadium again. However, we prefer to play it in the East to complete the "home and home" arrangement with Dartmouth. The game here last year did not draw an attendance up to our expectations.

Mayor Curley refused permission for the use of the stadium on November 28, because the Holy Cross-Boston College game is scheduled for that date.

TECH SCORES IN DIAMOND DEBUT

Downs Hyattsville High at Riverdale by 8-3 Count.

TECH HIGH SCHOOL'S baseball team, opened its season by downing Hyattsville High, 8 to 3, yesterday afternoon on the Riverdale diamond. It was the third loss in as many starts for Hyattsville. Tech jumped into the lead in the first inning when it scored four runs on three hits, two scratchy, and two errors. It added its other four tallies in the sixth on a hit, two walks and two errors.

Hyattsville registered its first run in the fourth and its other two in the seventh.

Tech Tries Out Trio Of Pitchers.

Tech used three pitchers, Chewning, Russell and Batson, all of whom showed well, particularly the last two. Francis Peffer, who went the route for Hyattsville, hurled creditably but was the victim of mediocre support. He fanned 10.

Nau and Crenshaw for Tech and Byrd and Peffer for Hyattsville were most consistent at the bat, all getting two hits apiece. One of Peffer's was good for three bases.

V. P. I. RALLY BRINGS 10-9 VICTORY

Two Homers for Barnard as North Carolina Bows.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., April 15.—V. P. I.'s baseball team overcame a four-run lead in the final innings to take a free-hitting contest from North Carolina, 10 to 9, in the opening game here today. Extra base wallops, including four home runs, three triples and one double, screamed to the far corners of Miles Stadium as a total of five hurlers sought to stem the tide of hits.

The Gobblers early jumped into a five-run lead. Nicholas' single scored Capt. Bibb in the first inning and Bibb scored to left to score Barnard in the second. Tech added three more in the third, sending Hinton from the mound on a single by Nicholas, Sutton's triple and Barnard's circuit drive into the right field stands after Perebee hit.

V. P. I. Crumbles in Fourth.

V. P. . went to pieces afield in the fourth, letting in three runs. Carolina added three more in the fifth on hits by Powell, Peacock, Perebee and House, another in the sixth on safeties by Wyrick and Potts, and ended its scoring with two more in the seventh on House's two-bagger and a home run by Perebee.

Hardwick's circuit swat and another home by Barnard featured a V. P. I. three-run rally in the seventh. Hardwick scored Bibb with a triple in the eighth and brought in the winning run on a squeeze play. Playing his first varsity game, Ray errorless ball afield and crashed out two home runs in three credited times at bat. Lann, a sophomore, relieved Murden for V. P. I. in the eighth and held the Tarheels scoreless.

Staunton Defeats "Little Generals"

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., April 15.—Efforts of "Lefty" Sauerbrum, Washington and Lee Freshman pitcher, were in vain here this afternoon as Staunton Military Academy won a 6-5 victory over the Little Generals. Sauerbrum struck out 16 men, and his mates pounded out 10 hits, but poor support in the infield and hazardous base running decided the game. Staunton only found Sauerbrum for five clean hits, but the visitors monopolized on Little General miscues to gain an early lead. hTe summary

Track Strength of C. U. Exaggerated, Says Coach

Griffith Pessimistic Regarding Cardinals' Chances Against Maryland in Debut Saturday; Only 14 Men Available.

By JACK ESPEY.

GLOWING reports of the Catholic University track team which makes its debut Saturday in a meet with Maryland at College Park are not reflected by Coach Dorsey Griffith who looks pessimistically upon the Cardinals' chances of winning the meet.

Word has been emanating from Brookland of late to the effect that the Cardinals will have their strongest cinder path squad in history this year, but the authors of these reports evidently did not talk to Coach Griffith, who, while naming his personnel last night declared: "We'll do well to give them a hard fight."

According to Griffith, the Maroon and Black will have only 14 representatives in the Maryland clash with most of this number not in the best of condition. Runners and field events athletes alike came under Griffith's mournful description.

C. U. May Miss Penn Relays.

So dismal do things look right now, said Griffith, that Catholic probably will not be represented in the Penn Relays to be held Friday and Saturday of next week at Philadelphia.

Aside from the subject of physical condition, it appears Catholic will be hard pressed to take many of the honors Saturday. This is illustrated by the fact that the Brookland school has only as many athletes as there are events—14, while on the other hand, Maryland has double that number.

In several cases, Cardinal athletes will compete in three or four events, for instance, Vinnie Praatz, who is slated to perform in the high and broad jumps, and both hurdle races. Actually, Praatz is entered in six events, including the shot put and discus, but it is extremely doubtful that he will take part in all.

Following is the Catholic University Team:

100-yard dash, Lyons, McGuigan and Flynn; mile run, Farris, Ragusa and Morris; 220-yard dash, Lyons, McGuigan and Stines; 120-yard high hurdles, Krick and Praatz; 440-yard dash, McGuigan and Hickey; 2-mile run, Garafalo, Ragusa and Farris; 220-yard low hurdles, Stines and Praatz; 880-yard run, Hickey and McGuigan; javelin, McGrath, Flynn and Stines; discus, McGrath and Praatz; shot put, Flynn and Praatz; high jump, Praatz and Krick; pole vault, Flaherty and Guarnieri; broad jump, Praatz, Krick and Hickey.

KOSCIS STAR IN CENTRAL MEET

Wins 3 Intramural Events as Senior Team Triumphs.

CONSONANT with the form sheet, the seniors yesterday scored 64 points to capture the team honors in the annual intramural track and field meet held yesterday afternoon at Central High Stadium for the benefit of the parents of the Blue and White thin-clads. The sophomores finished up second, with 29 points, about twice as effective as the juniors, who amassed 15 points. The freshmen were unable to garner any percentage whatever.

While the team honors went to the top classmen, it was a sophomore, Bert Koscis, who single-handedly boosted his team into the runner-up berth and copped the majority of the attention of the several hundred spectators.

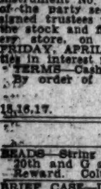
FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS



This strange man sees the way and tells it to you. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds, whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

WOMAN FINED $200 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Capital Resident Enters Guilty Plea in Prince Georges Court.

Mrs. Mae Martin, who gave an address on Connecticut avenue, near Chesapeake street, yesterday was fined $200 in Prince Georges County Police Court for possession of liquor. She pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Martin was arrested on the Baltimore boulevard near Laurel by Officer Ralph Brown, who said he found ten cases of alleged contraband in her car.

Elmer Brown, who gave an address on T street northwest, near Fourteenth street, also was fined $200 for illegal possession. Possession also caused a fine of $50 to be assessed against Mary Brown, of Washington. The woman appealed and was released on bond of $200 pending hearing.

Leoa F. Malia, who says he is a sailor at the Naval Air Station, forfeited collateral of $100 for driving while drunk. He was arrested by Eugene Plumer, chief of police of Mount Rainier.

Mary Willis, a school girl of Takoma Park, received a suspended sentence of $4.50 for assault and battery on Mrs. Ralston Binkley, also of Takoma Park. The girl is alleged to have thrown a stone at the woman.

Wallace Bowling, driver of the car in which Raymond Grimm was killed in an accident on the Southern Maryland pike, yesterday was indicted for manslaughter by the Prince Georges County grand jury. Grimm was the son of Mrs. Lulu Mae Gamble, of Charles County, who was freed last fall on a charge of shooting a woman who was alleged to have broken up the Gamble home.

Grimm was killed when a roadster containing several young men ran off the road near Clinton, Md.

Oliver Johnson was indicted on charges of storebreaking, larceny and receiving stolen goods. He is alleged to have entered the tailor shop of A. Elmo, in Hyattsville, and taking four overcoats worth $75 and other goods.

Three indictments on nonsupport charges were returned by the grand jury. They are against John Fred Nichols, Howard M. Dove and George Washington.

Robert Archie Ford and John Henry Crump were indicted for statutory offenses. Joseph S. King will have to stand trial on charges of assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Norman Kidwell.

Alice Chase, colored, who was convicted of stealing at the last term of court and received a suspended sentence, was indicted on a new charge of housebreaking, larceny, and receiving stolen goods. She is accused of having taken $30 and a quantity of other goods from Harry Mercer. Her 8-year-old son, Lawrence, was indicted with her last fall and was sent to the House of Reformation.

James Medley and Theodore Green were indicted for larceny and receiving stolen goods. They are alleged to have taken a coat valued at $12 from J. H. Anderson. An indictment charging housebreaking, larceny and receiving stolen goods was returned against Robert Jackson. Arthur White was indicted for larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Charging desertion, Mrs. Georgie A. Dunbar yesterday filed suit for absolute divorce from Harry C. Dunbar, whose last address was on L street northwest near Fifth street. In her petition, filed through Attorney T. Van Clagett, the woman states that the couple was married in 1912. She says he abandoned her in 1926. They have two children, and she asks the court to award her their custody.

The hearing scheduled for yesterday before the Maryland Public Service Commission on the request of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. to remove the station agent at Riverdale was postponed indefinitely, according to a letter received by R. P. Caruthers, clerk of the town.

The letter from the commission did not give any reason for the postponement, but stated that the town would receive a letter from the railroad shortly. The change was to have taken place on April 20.

Two new roads, scheduled to have been partially improved this year, will be completely finished, according to changes announced by the Board of County Commissioners. They are Chillum and University roads, both near Hyattsville.

The original plan was to improve 1 mile on each road, leaving half a mile on the Chillum road and three-quarters of a mile on the other unimproved. The State Roads Commission has pointed out that it would be cheaper to finish both roads than to have to advertise another year for construction of two such short stretches.

In addition, the commission pointed out that roads are being built cheaper this year than ever before, and that enough might be saved on other construction to finish these stretches.

SUSPECT IDENTIFIED IN BANK-THEFT CASE

One of 7 Persons Accused in Maryland Is Held for Grand Jury Action.

Denton, Md., April 15 (A.P.).—George Blanchfield, of Townsend, Del., was held for grand jury action by Magistrate Henry R. Lewis today, after he had been identified by one witness as one of the men who participated in the robbery of the Bank of Ridgley on March 16, in which more than $50,000 in cash and securities was taken from the blown safe.

Blanchfield was the first of seven accused persons, six men and a woman, to be given the preliminary hearing after all had asked for separate action.

Others under arrest were Clara Reynolds, 32, of Denton; Joseph Reynolds, of Bellevue, Del.; her brother; William Allaband, Kennett Square, Pa.; Jerome Scaggs and Chester Leach, Towsend, Del., and Isaac Zanes, Penns Grove, N. J.

Mrs. Alfred Thompson, wife of a garage owner of Ridgley, identified Blanchfield as one of three men she saw walking away from the bank a few minutes after she was awakened by an explosion.

G. Lawrence Wilkins, cashier of the bank, testified that despite the recovery of some $50,000 in bonds found hidden in a culvert, the bank still was short $1,700 in cash and $600 in Liberty bonds.

Blanchfield was unable to furnish $15,000 bail. The other six accused will be given hearings as fast as the cases can be disposed of, Magistrate Lewis said.

WIDER BRIDGE ASKED IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Chamber Indorses Move to Seek Funds for Work on Colvin Span.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce at Merrifield, voted to indorse the plans asking the State Highway Commission to allocate emergency funds to widen the narrow bridge at Colvin Run in advance of any program that might be adopted for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1931.

The need for this improvement has been demonstrated by the six serious accidents at this point, within the past six weeks. George F. Harrison, of Herndon, chairman of the chambers highway committee, was named to interview the chairmen of the State Highway Commission and find out what can be done to remedy the dangerous point immediately.

President Edmund H. Allen appointed a committee consisting of W. F. P. Reid, of Groveton; Joseph Berry, of Vienna; George F. Harrison, of Herndon; William J. Cleveland, of Seminary, and Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, to formulate a comprehensive program of improvements needed to make the State highways in Fairfax County adequate for the amount of traffic expected during the George Washington Bicentennial celebration next year.

Members of the chamber stressed particularly the dangerous situations presented by the narrow and winding Chain Bridge highway, the narrow bridge over Holmes Run on the Leesburg pike and the overcrowded Washington-Richmond highway south of Alexandria, as well as other locations. This committee asked President Allen Earl Saum and John W. Rust to meet with them next Wednesday in the chamber of commerce offices at Fairfax.

Capt. Thurlow White, of Baileys Cross Roads, representative of Fairfax County on the Northern Virginia Bicentennial committee reported that the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce subcommittee had selected Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, as chairman of the committee on information and publicity; Mrs. G. Ashley Money, of Colvin Run, chairman of the housing committee to list and inspect available accommodations for tourists; Miss Ludema Sayre, of Fairfax, chairman of local community celebrations; Martin T. Webb, of Annandale, chairman of routing, which includes the marking of highway routes, guide service through the Boy Scouts; Mrs. Amos Chilcott, of Fairfax, chairman of the beautification committee, and Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax, chairman of legislation.

The chamber instructed its public utilities committee to investigate the reported ruling of the State Highway Commission denying the telephone and electric companies permission to erect their poles on the State right-of-way. It has been reported that the companies were unable to extend service to the Pleasant Valley community, because they could not get permission to erect their poles along the Lee-Jackson Highway. John W. Rust of Fairfax, was asked to serve on the public utility committee in considering this ruling.

The special committee of the chamber, appointed to cooperate in the ground breaking ceremonies for the Lee Boulevard, reported that the date for the ceremonies is being held up pending arrangements by Gov. John Garland Pollard and other guests of honor, chief of which is President Hoover, and that 5,000 special invitations are to be sent out by Gov. Pollard to prominent persons throughout the county.

The resignation of Edward C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, as vice president of the chamber, was presented, but no action was taken at the meeting. President Allen announced that he was calling a special meeting of the chamber's board of directors for next Tuesday evening, in the chambers offices in the old clerk's office building at Fairfax. The next regular meeting of the chamber will be held in the auditorium of the Annandale schoolhouse.

Fairfax County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr and Miss Sarah E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, have arranged for a meat-cutting demonstration for the benefit of the housewives of Fairfax and Arlington Counties, Alexandria City and the other sections of northern Virginia. The demonstrations will be given this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Virginia Public Co. Building in Alexandria.

Max O. Cullen, a demonstrator from the national live stock meat board, will cut up a lamb and explain the uses of the various cuts. Prof. George C. Herring, of the animal husbandry division of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will give a talk on the "Change of Food Habits of the American People." A similar demonstration was given last night in the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria for the retail meat dealers of northern Virginia.

"AN AMERICAN TRAGEDY" IN THE FILMS.

THEODORE DREISER has a "mad on" against Hollywood. They are filming "An American Tragedy" out there, and when Theodore took one look at it he cried for Sinclair Lewis to "Hit me again! I can still see it!"

• • • •

According to Mr. Dreiser, Hollywood has put his novel through the wringer and brought forth something even Eddie Cantor wouldn't admit writing.

• • • •

"An American Tragedy," the author thinks, looks in the movie version like a combination of "East Lynne," "The Rollo Boys in Nicaragua," "Trader Horn," the Pathe newsreel and a Cinderella episode out of Aesop's Fables.

• • • •

Dreiser had to write two volumes to tell his story, and Hollywood hasn't used either one of them.

• • • •

He is said to have fled California in tears before discovering they had put a theme song in the picture version.

• • • •

The author threatens suit to restrain the picture magnates from casting Chevalier to play Clyde Griffiths, Marlene Dietrich as Roberta, Marie Dressler as the big collar merchant and Ben Turpin as the two sheriffs.

• • • •

In Mr. Dreiser's novel Clyde meets Roberta in his uncle's collar works. This would be too drab in pictures, so the director has arranged to have the meeting take place in a de luxe cabaret where Clyde leads an 80-piece orchestra and the heroine is the cigarette girl.

• • • •

CLYDE later falls for a society girl (Clara Bow), who has been attracted to him by his crooning over the radio. In the novel Clyde takes Roberta out for a row on a lake and drowns her, but this would be too commonplace in Hollywood, so they have him drop her out of an airplane.

• • • •

As Dreiser wrote "An American Tragedy," Clyde swims ashore and flees all night through the woods, but Hollywood says swimming scenes are overdone in pictures, and has Clyde flee by glider, dirigible, Diesel yacht and submarine. He is finally caught by a posse in a diving bell.

• • • •

The courtroom scene when Clyde is tried is the most spectacular ever filmed. Twelve (12) judges are used, all tap dancers, and there are six (6) district attorneys.

• • • •

The big punch comes when Clyde discovers that the twelve judges and two of the prosecutors are his own father.

• • • •

Mr. Dreiser is greatly distressed, but he should, as a matter of fact, feel that he has been given a lucky break.

• • • •

After all they have not put a trained seal in the picture at my point.

BOARD HEARS PLEAS ON BRIDGE APPROACH

Committee Urges Adoption of Washington Street; Early Action Asked.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Supported by the full membership of the right-of-way committee including a number of representatives of civic organizations in Arlington and Washington Districts, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, chairman of the committee, appeared before the board of supervisors yesterday urging adoption of Washington street as the adequate approach to the new memorial bridge.

Mr. Gloth read letters from Miss Bessie Christian and H. Rozier Dulaney, who have agreed to give a 60-foot right-of-way across their property. With this right of way assured, Mr. Gloth pointed out that the county is being presented with a free right of way over the entire route, providing the road is built in a reasonable time applies particularly to the rights of way donated by both Miss Christian and Mr. Dulaney, he said.

"It is needless for me to say how valuable this land is," said Mr. Gloth.

Charles T. Jesse, another member of the committee, in appealing to the board, said: "This land is worth at least $60,000, and from a standpoint economy and for the benefit of the taxpayers of Arlington County, this opportunity should not be lost in getting such a valuable free right-of-way."

Ashton C. Jones, former president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, declared that the road is a necessity and should be built without unnecessary delay. Members of the board, while appearing in a receptive mood, said they wish to go slow and feel that a week or two would do no harm. They instructed County Engineer C. L. Kinnier to prepare plans, specifications and an estimated cost of construction. With this completed, Chairman Edward Duncan stated that a special meeting would be held. With a number of other proposals for roads and sidewalk improvements presented Supervisor B. M. Hedrick stated that all plans for roads will be discussed at the special meeting.

The board unanimously approved the request of Sheriff Howard B. Fields for the appointment of three additional men on the county police force.

Sheriff Fields pointed out that at the Washington-Lee High School alone there are more than 1,500 children attending that school and more than one officer is needed morning and afternoon.

The board also approved the ordering of new uniforms for all members of the force.

Bids for reconstruction of a section of Rucker avenue and Courthouse road in Lyon Village was opened. The board announced that the contract will not be awarded until the May meeting.

Dr. Charles H. Rominger, national president of the Monarch Clubs, will speak at the weekly meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club today at 12 o'clock.

Work of widening Frazier avenue, from Mount Vernon avenue to the Washington-Richmond highway, approximately one mile, will be started today by the successful bidders, the Northern Virginia Construction Co. The bid was $23,302.88.

The road will be widened to 40 feet from the Washington-Richmond highway for a distance of 2,500 feet. The remainder, extending to Mount Vernon avenue, will be widened to 30 feet.

The Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its annual meeting and election of officers tonight at the Heights Clubhouse at 6:30 o'clock.

Chief A. C. Scheffel, of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department, announces the appointment of William McAtee as fire marshal.

A benefit luncheon will be served by the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon tomorrow fom 11:30 to 2 o'clock. Proceeds will go to the I. O. O. F. Orphans' Home at Lynchburg, Va., where 123 boys and girls are being cared for and educated.

A card party under auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Charles' Catholic Church at Clarendon will be held tonight in the auditorium of St. Charles School. Proceeds will go toward defraying expenses of the annual picnic trip of the school children to Bristow, Va.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are Thomas J. Crack, chairman; J. T. Cavanaugh, jr., Joseph L. Dugan, Henry C. Batch, J. W. McCoy, T. A. Flynn and A. A. Moore.

The monthly meeting of the Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed to Thursday evening, April 23.

Hunting Season Is Climaxed By Trials at Keswick Club

Ideal Weather Favored Event Near Charlottesville, With Barbecue One of Features; Three Classes Participate for Awards Before Big Crowd.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 15.—The hunting set from Piedmont Virginia was well represented today at the annual hunter trials of the Keswick Hunt Club, a fitting climax to a gay hunting season extending over six months. Following the trials, a barbecue was given on the grounds of the Keswick Horse Show, primarily for farmers and residents of the community, over whose ground the hunts have been held.

The hunter trials were staged under ideal weather conditions at E. H. Joslin's estate, Clover Hill, hard by Cloverfield, home of the Randolphs, and 13 miles from Castle Hill, once owned by Dr. Thomas Walker, pioneer plantation owner, who started for Kentucky in 1752 to participate in fox hunts in the Blue Grass State, carrying with him a string of thoroughbreds and hounds.

Three classes were on today's program, which got under way at 10 o'clock, and was not concluded until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Fox hunters from Albemarle, Orange, Culpeper and other nearby counties were on hand to see the hunters go singly over the mile-and-a-half course, with ten jumps, including post and rail, triple fences across road, chicken coop, creek and pigpen. The start and finish were on the lawn at Clover Hill, and all hurdles were in full sight of the big gallery.

Lightweight Class.

Twenty-five horses were entered in the class for lightweight hunters. The first prize, a handsome silver cup, was won by North Call, owned and ridden by Forrest Ward, of Charlottesville. This flashy bay gelding, sired by North Cliff, out of Bugle Call, is a grandson of Sea King, owned by the late Thomas Fortune Ryan.

The second award, a silver cup, went to Golden Max, exhibited by Mrs. E. L. Ditto, of New York, who is building a summer home in the Keswick community. This thoroughbred gelding is by Golden Maxim, out of Layol, and was piloted by Russell Hamm, of Charlottesville.

The yellow ribbon was won by Churchill Newcomb's Frisky, a chestnut bay, by Glorifier out of Cherokee.

The white ribbon was given Quilting Party, a bay mare, owned by Jouett Todd, of Louisville, Ky., a former student at the University of Virginia.

Other entries in the lightweight class were Trump, a half-bred by Loughaswelly, shown by Manly Carter, of Orange; John C. Stewart's In the Gloaming, a thoroughbred out of Paulina, by Gloaming; Mrs. Cary Jackson's Goldie; China Moon, Miss Keswick and Miss Sugar, from the stables of Richard O. Hall, Keswick; W. B. Bogert's Gay Cockade, well-known to the Virginia circuit of horse shows; Mrs. Jack Rinehart's Luster; Miss Alice Cunningham's St. Peter; Miss Janie Terrill's Patsy; Kernel and Happy Days, shown by Mrs. A. W. Keith, of the University; Tip Top, owned by Barney Dirzvilati, also of the University; Jean Riley's White Foot and Teola; Little Golden, Dixie's Child and Flanette, owned by Arthur W. Talcott.

Many Other Entries.

The class for middleweight and heavyweight hunters attracted 19 entries. The silver plate was awarded Jouett Todd's O'Finnegan, a five-year-old gelding by Nantrove, out of Reggie O'Connor. The rider was George Petty, of Keswick.

Second place, which carried a silver cup, was won by Mrs. Randolph Ortman's Paddy O'Spangle, a 7-year-old gelding by Star Spangled, out of Bridget O'Connor, by Galveston. He was ridden by Jack Carpenter, of Greenwood.

The yellow ribbon went to Shere Khan, a bay gelding by Gordon Russell, owned and ridden by Mrs. Cary Jackson, and the white to Jack Rinehart's Brandy.

Other hunters in this event were Cary Jackson C. Craft, by Delhi, out of Cunard. John Stewart's Riley; W. B. Bogert's Raggedy Ann; Miss Alice Cunningham's Wild Cherry; March Step and Job, owned by Mrs. R. M. Brady, of Orange; Jouett Todd's Skole; Sky Rocket and Papoose, shown by Mrs. Arthur Talcott and Thomas and Amos, owned by Mrs. J. J. Riley, who has recently erected a new home, Tallyho Farm, in the fashionable Keswick section.

Thirty-two horses competed for the silver bowl offered in the class for Ladies' Hunters. The trophy was awarded Jouett Todd's O'Finnegan. The silver cup was won by Mrs. Ortman's Paddy O'Spangle, piloted by Jean Randolph, of the University of Virginia.

The yellow ribbon went to Mrs. Cary Jackson's Laughing Boy, a 4-year-old gelding by Greek Legend, and the white to Richard Hall's Keswick.

Kernal, Saturday Night and Leander, from the Meander Farm Stables, Rapidan, were among the entries in this event. E. W. Ferry, of Miller's Tavern, rode Paul Pry, owned by Richard Weaver, of Culpeper.

Princess' Sister Visitor.

Among the spectators today was Mrs. Allan Potts, of Happy Creek Farm, sister of Princess Troubetzky and a leading rider at horse shows on the Virginia circuit in recent years. Another was Mrs. Wilbur Osborne, of Gordonsville, whose stable was not represented at the trials.

Among the ladies who piloted the hunters over the course were Miss Mary Chamberlain, of Orange; Mrs. A. M. Keith and Miss Jean Randolph. Miss Sue Bolling and Miss Ellie Wood Page Keith, of the University of Virginia; Mrs. J. J. Riley, formerly of Montreal, Canada; Mrs. Cary Jackson, Mrs. Arthur Talcott, Miss Alice Cunningham and Miss Janie Terrill, of Keswick; Miss Julia Shearer and Miss Judith Shearer, of Rapidan, and Mrs. Jack Rinehart, of Charlottesville.

The classes were judged by Algernon S. Craven, of Greenwood, master of the Albemarle County Hunt; Fletcher Harper, of The Plains, master of the Orange County Hunt, and Thomas Atkinson, also of The Plains.
